Super Highway Addition Opens

Passenger cars and trucks are lined up at the eastern end of the 100-mile turnpike which opened for business at King of Prussia, Pa., Monday. The new four-lane toll road addition extends from the previous eastern turnpike terminal at Carlisle, Pa., to King of Prussia, about 15 miles from Philadelphia's city line. The 100-mile extension increased the length of the Pennsylvania Turnpike to 260 miles of uninterrupted travel. (AP Wirephoto)

Officials Criticized For Blunder

Armed Services Group Says U. S. Position in Rubber Far From Satisfactory

Three Units Hit

Munitions Board, Two Others Are Assailed for Plant Sales

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—A Senate committee said today that government officials using less horse sense than if they were running a charity bazaar blundered badly when they sold war-useful plants as surplus.

The armed services preparedness subcommittee headed by Senator Lydon Johnson (D-Tex.) declared also that the nation's rubber position is "far from satisfactory."

In a caustically worded report, the committee said government agencies concerned are doing fine on their paper work but not on performance. It particularly criticized disposal of production plants which are needed in the defense program.

The 37-page report was a sequel to one issued last Sept. 5 in which the group, set up as a sort of watchdog of the whole rearmament program, found a "siesta psychology" in handling of surplus property and rubber programs.

"It ill becomes government officials to conduct the public business with less prudence than they would display in operating a charity bazaar," the new report said. "But that has happened."

Three Singled Out

The committee singled out the Munitions Board, Commerce Department, General Services Administration and air force for specific criticism. In a general indictment of these four and others, it said:

"Progress in paper work — of which there has been considerable—is no substitute for progress in performance — of which there has not been enough. Paper-work preparedness is only flimsy protection against the threat we face."

The subcommittee cited the Munitions Board for permitting G.S.A. to sell alcohol plants at Kansas City and Omaha, Neb., and G.S.A. for going ahead with the sales.

Rubber Order Cited

As an instance of "impressive paper work" not followed up by performance, the subcommittee called attention to the Commerce Department's Aug. 25 rubber order.

The order was designed to reduce non-military consumption of new rubber to 90,000 tons, and save approximately 15,000 tons a month.

"But the order," the report observed, "generally speaking, favored the larger companies and operated unfairly on the smaller ones. In this state of affairs the department, instead of revising the order to eliminate the inequities and restricting the use to not more than 90,000 tons, proceeded to grant additional quotas totaling 15,000 tons."

The National Production Administration later issued a modified order covering November and December.

Plant Is Sold

The subcommittee also criticized G.S.A.'s sale of a 100-octane aviation gasoline plant at Cotton Valley, La., to the Dulien Steel Products, Inc., of Seattle, Wash., for dismantling.

The air force was criticized both for its surplus sales at Robins (Ga.) air base and its repurchase of aircraft computers, sold as surplus for $6.89 and bought back recently for $63,000.

"The subcommittee would be greatly pleased if the air force, instead of seeking to justify unjustifiable past actions, would

Nine Dead Counted in West Flood

(By The Associated Press)

Torrents of mountain-fed flood waters ripped through northern and central California and western Nevada this morning, driving thousands of persons from their homes and doing untold amounts of property damage.

At least nine persons are dead from the floods, which started on its third day of rampage with added force from mountain rains and melting snow.

Reno Is Mud Patch

Here is how the situation stacks up at the moment:

NEVADA—The main section of Reno is a tumbled mass of mud, debris and torn paving after the swirling Truckee river—normally three to four feet deep at this time of year—roared 20 feet deep and three blocks wide through the center of "the biggest little city in the world."

The Truckee burst its banks with crushing force at 10:30 last night, flooding swank hotels and gambling casinos. For hours the downtown section was under six to eight feet of water, but the flood was receding today. One death was attributed to the raging waters.

State of Emergency

CALIFORNIA—Governor Earl Warren declared a state of emergency over the raging floods in the central valley. The Yuba county sheriff's office ordered the evacuation of an estimated 3,500 residents from East Linda, near Marysville, in the face of the threat of the flooding Yuba and Bear rivers. The muddy torrent, which has already smashed through levees in three places and inundated the towns of Hammonton and Marigold, continues to rise.

The American river burst its banks near Sacramento and flooded thousands of acres of suburban land, driving 1,000 people from their homes.

Eight California deaths were attributed, directly or indirectly, to the floods.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at San Francisco predicted "moderate to heavy rain" for the High Sierra today—the ninth day of storms.

Hotels Are Flooded

Reno, gaudy little city of casinos and quickie divorces, reeled under the impact of the flood. Muddy water raced through the business district in a stream three blocks wide, sweeping trees, benches, cars in its rage.

The plush Riverside Hotel had five feet of water on its main floor.

The ultra swank Mapes Hotel's basement was flooded to the ceiling. A six-foot wall of water was kept out of the lobby by sandbags.

Merchants reported thousands of dollars of damage to Christmas merchandise stored in flooded basements.

United Air Lines scheduled a special plane to evacuate stranded

10th Corps Leader Is With Forces

Communists Still Have Big Network of Rail Lines, Highways in Northeast

Range Is 'Easy'

Artillery Has Sectors of Manchuria Within Its Sights

Seoul, Nov. 21 (AP)—American infantrymen today burst into the Korean border town of Hyesanjin, across the Hayz Yalu river from Communist Manchuria and took it without firing a shot.

Tanks, flanked by bearded infantrymen of the U. S. Seventh Division, lumbered up to the slushy banks of the Yalu at 9:45 a. m. (7:45 p. m., EST, Monday). They were the first Americans to reach the border.

Maj. Gen. Edward M. Almond, Tenth Corps commander, who was with his men when they reached the border, jubilantly announced the drive to the Yalu boundary through snow-covered mountain passes has "divided enemy held territory and isolated all significant forces east of the 127th Meridian east longitude."

However, the Communists still have a great network of military highways and railways in the northeast, linked with Manchuria where Korean Red armies were reported being reorganized.

To Go on Into Spring

And strong Red buildups, combined with the rigorous Korean winter, brought predictions from United Nations intelligence officers the war will continue well into next spring.

Maj. Gen. David G. Barr, Seventh Division commander, accompanied his 17th Regimental Combat Team as it slogged down out of the mountains to the Yalu river banks near Hyesanjin.

Dog-tired infantrymen had completed a 20 mile march through melting snow and a vanishing enemy to reach the border.

Eleven tanks, protected by infantrymen and antiaircraft batteries, led the column.

Col. Herbert B. Powell, commanding the 17th, said Red Manchuria was within easy artillery range, but his guns would not fire across the river "unless they fire at us first."

22 Days Required

The weary infantrymen, veterans of an outfit which fought on Attu in the Aleutians during the Second World War, reached the border just 22 days after they made an unopposed amphibious landing in Korea. The border was the end of a 100-mile march over treacherous mountain roads and across a 6,000-foot mountain range, and in temperatures that sometimes dropped below zero.

Almond announced his corps has liberated 23,000 square miles of North Korea in less than a month.

There was no hint of the next move of the 17th regimental combat team. Its position at Hyesanjin cuts a highway and rail network that Japanese militarists built along the border when they ruled Korea.

Can Put Men Across

The Communists still can put men across the border on either side of this point. They could take advantage of uncut sections of the military road network, or seldom used mountain passes over which Chinese Communist divisions traveled when they first poured into Korea.

Paralleling the 17th's advance, the South Korean Capital Division pushed ten miles up the east coast Monday, capturing Chuchonhujang, 75 miles east of Hyesanjin. This put the Koreans just 85 miles from the Soviet Siberian border.

Ahead of them lay a heavily timbered mountain area, dotted with solid rock and concrete fortifications built by the Japanese.

Beyond the northernmost tip of Korea, in the Tumen area of Manchuria, North Korean units were reported to be reorganizing and recruiting to slip back again into Korea.

General MacArthur's intelligence officers in Tokyo expressed more concern over reorganization of Red defenses along the northwest front.

A MacArthur spokesman said Red armies are organizing a de-

Flatbush Man Killed In Building Collapse

Walter Hamilton Is Crushed Under Weight of Pavilion

Walter T. Hamilton, 68, of Flatbush was instantly killed at 9 o'clock this morning when a partially completed pavilion building at Camp Turkey Point on the Hudson river, collapsed under the heavy wind. Mr. Hamilton was pinned beneath the debris and his head was crushed and he also sustained severe back injuries.

Henry Paley, owner of the property, and another workman, Gerald Hughes of Ruby escaped a similar fate when they fell between the collapsed building and floor timbers where an opening had been left in the flooring. Hughes sustained injuries to his back and shoulder.

State police at Lake Katrine were summoned as was the emergency truck of the Central Hudson and with the aid of these men and the crew of the Conner Ambulance Service, the timbers were removed and the body of Hamilton was released.

Wind Levels Building

The three men had been at work in the nearly completed building when a heavy gust of wind leveled the building. One side of the building had not been completed and the wind swept in and caused the structure to collapse. A former pavilion building, which the present structure was to replace, was consumed by fire on Sunday, October 1, when a new Nash car in the building was also destroyed by the fire.

Hughes and Hamilton were employed by Mr. Paley in reconstructing the building, which was 30 by 40 feet in size.

Paley and Hughes were working in a partion of the building where a floor had not been completed and were knocked between the floor timbers and the ground.

It was necessary to use jacks to raise the debris sufficiently to release Hamilton's body. When released he was dead and Coroner Ernest A. Kelly was called and issued a death certificate, his

Tsiang Tells U.N. 45,000 Reds Are Leaders in China

Lake Success, Nov. 21 (AP)—Nationalist China's T. F. Tsiang told the United Nations today 45,000 Soviet agents completely dominate the political, economic and cultural life of Communist China.

Events of the past 12 months, Tsiang said, have fully proved his charges that the Chinese civil war was engineered by Russia and that the Peiping regime is the stooge and tool of Moscow. He spoke before the General Assembly's 60-nation political committee.

Tsiang told the committee Russia has completely ignored the Assembly's 1949 appeal to all nations to refrain from interfering in the internal affairs of China. He blamed Russia for the intervention of Communist China in the Korean war and said Russian imperialism was responsible for most of Asia's unrest.

The Nationalist delegate urged the U.N. to create a special commission of inquiry to look into Russia's alleged aggression against China and to report back to the 1951 Assembly. He said the matter was urgent but that he realized a thorough, systematic study is called for.

Cold Moves Eastward

Chicago, Nov. 21 (AP)—Cold weather — below freezing — continued over the central part of the country and the chilly air moved eastward into the eastern coast states. No sub-zero temperatures were reported as some warming was reported in the northern and central parts of the Great Plains and the Rockies—yesterday's coldest regions. The below freezing weather extended as far south as Memphis, which reported a reading of 29. There were some snow flurries in the upper Great Lakes and in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia. Rain or snow fell elsewhere in the Middle Atlantic and New England states. Light rain fell in northern California and parts of Nevada and Utah. Elsewhere in the country fair weather was reported.

Average Pay Cited

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP) — America's 13,100,000 production workers earned an average of $61.98 a week for 41.4 hours of labor during October. This was reported today by the Bureau of Labor Statistics which said the average weekly paycheck was $1.30 more than during September. The bureau also reported the work week of the average production man was about 25 minutes longer. The government report attributed the increases to "more overtime and increased wage rates."

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—The position of the treasury Nov. 17: Net budget receipts, $82,252,-601.52; budget expenditures, $83,-480,173.95; cash balance, $4,300,-624,887.83; customs receipts for month, $34,189,561.54; budget receipts fiscal year July 1, $13,100,-487,715.12; budget expenditures fiscal year $13,893,360,214.86; budget deficit, $793,-988,499.74; total debt, $256,-257,234,278.39; increase over previous day, $1,079,-469.08; gold assets, $23,-191,799,-891.17.

Less Than 200 Take Part in Rally at City Auditorium

West Point Band Concert Precedes Address by Former Head of V.F.W.

A band concert of an excellence seldom equalled in Kingston, and an inspiring address by Clyde A. Lewis, past national commander of the V.F.W., were the rewards of the small number of persons who braved the rainstorm to attend the Americanism rally at the high school last night.

The attendance of fewer than 200 persons at an Americanism rally was as he expected, said Lewis, who during the past three years traveled 405,000 miles over the country and found only "apathy on the part of people towards Americanism."

"We need many Paul Revere's like the Kingston Joint Americanism Committee," the ex head of the Veterans of Foreign Wars said. "Danger signs are everywhere. This country needs thousands of such meetings."

Lewis traveled from his home in Plattsburg Monday night to attend the meeting here, and had to return home immediately after his talk. Stressing the importance of "waking up," he warned

Broadway Crossing Closes, Traffic Uses New Routes

Detour Signs Are Placed; Chief Van Buren Says Flow of Vehicles Is Satisfactory, Except Smith Avenue Crossing

Kingston's main artery of traffic was severed this morning and traffic flowed satisfactorily over designated detour routes.

Broadway was blocked off at the railroad crossing early today and will remain closed to vehicular traffic until the completion of the grade separation project.

Detour signs were placed to direct traffic over the several previously announced routes. With several exceptions, which are expected to iron themselves out as drivers became more familiar with the temporary routes, the flow of traffic was satisfactory, according to Police Chief Raymond Van Buren.

The most dangerous of the situations which arose this morning occurred at the Smith avenue railroad crossing, where several drivers in bumper-to-bumper traffic found themselves on the railroad tracks as trains were approaching.

The intersections on either side of the rail crossing—the Cornell-Smith and the Grand-Smith corners—are crucial points in the new routing and vehicles "pile up" between the two points.

The resulting problem is one which can be solved only by "common-sense" driving, Chief of Police Van Buren said.

Asks Great Caution

The chief asks that all drivers, approaching the rail crossing in a slowly moving line of traffic, stop before entering upon the tracks and proceed across only after they know there will be enough room for their car to be completely clear of the tracks on the other side.

This morning there were several close calls, but no accidents

New York Water Supply Men See Operation to Drain Skies

Deputy Commissioner Horak of the New York City Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, accompanied by several other officials from the department and also representatives of the budget director's office, were given a demonstration of rainmaking this morning at The Freeman parking lot on Fair street.

The demonstration was given in order to acquaint the officials with the mechanical process which is used by the silver iodide generators which have been widely used during the past season in an effort to augment the water supply.

One of the two generators used by the city of New York was set up and under the direction of Charles Hesley and Joel Kiff, who have been one of the operating crews, and a practical demonstration was given.

Commissioner Horak, with several other officials from the department, toured the Rondout watershed and the Prattsville wa-

Macy Quits Suffolk Post; May Fight Dewey Control

Great River, N. Y., Nov. 21 (AP)—A renewed fight against Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's control of the New York state Republican organization by Rep. W. Kingsland Macy appeared possible today after Macy's sudden resignation as Suffolk county G.O.P. chairman.

Macy's resignation as chairman—announced last night—followed his defeat for reelection to Congress.

Macy, recipient of the famed "Hanley letter," lost to Ernest Greenwood, Democrat-Liberal, by 189 votes in a virtually complete canvass of more than 150,000 ballots cast.

In resigning the chairmanship he held 25 years, Macy said in a statement last night:

"At this time and in the period ahead I can render more useful service to the Republican party as an individual than I could as a functioning chairman operating within the state party structure."

Some political circles took this statement as a hint that Macy—long at odds with Gov. Dewey—would press for reorganization of the state party.

Macy had charged soon after the Nov. 7 election that some Republican leaders had not extended themselves to help his campaign for reelection to Congress.

The Long Islander, a former G.O.P. state chairman, followed up his resignation announcement by blasting what he described as "machinations" before and after the Republican state convention at Saratoga Springs last September.

"Never before in my long years in politics," he told the Suffolk

Ives Blames President For Bi-Partisan Breakdown

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—Senator Ives (R-NY) said today President Truman will have to take Republicans into his confidence if he wants their backing on foreign policy.

Blaming the President for a breakdown in bi-partisan cooperation, Ives told reporters the Republicans have not been consulted in the past on the formation of many major decisions.

"I am a strong advocate of the bi-partisan foreign policy but we are never going to have any effective cooperation until Republican spokesmen are consulted in the formation of policies," he said.

"Where the bi-partisan policy has fallen down, it has not been the Republicans' fault. Basically, it has been the President's fault and there must be a change in attitude on his part."

Ives, a strong backer of Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) in the latter's role as G.O.P. foreign policy spokesman, added his voice to those who have been urging that Secretary of State Acheson be replaced. The President has said Acheson is staying and Acheson said he had no plans to resign.

"As one of those who supported and voted for Mr. Acheson's confirmation, I have been extremely disappointed in his actions as secretary of state," Ives said.

He said he was not questioning Acheson's integrity but believed the secretary had made mistakes of judgment.

He joined Senator Taft (R-Ohio) in urging a re-examination of ad-

Tsiang told the committee Russia has completely ignored the Assembly's 1949 appeal to all nations to refrain from interfering in the internal affairs of China. He blamed Russia for the intervention of Communist China in the Korean war and said Russian imperialism was responsible for most of Asia's unrest.

The Nationalist delegate urged the U.N. to create a special commission of inquiry to look into Russia's alleged aggression against China and to report back to the 1951 Assembly. He said the matter was urgent but that he realized a thorough, systematic study is called for.

Cold Moves Eastward

Chicago, Nov. 21 (AP)—Cold weather — below freezing — continued over the central part of the country and the chilly air moved eastward into the eastern coast states. No sub-zero temperatures were reported as some warming was reported in the northern and central parts of the Great Plains and the Rockies—yesterday's coldest regions. The below freezing weather extended as far south as Memphis, which reported a reading of 29. There were some snow flurries in the upper Great Lakes and in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia. Rain or snow fell elsewhere in the Middle Atlantic and New England states. Light rain fell in northern California and parts of Nevada and Utah. Elsewhere in the country fair weather was reported.

Average Pay Cited

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—America's 13,100,000 production workers earned an average of $61.98 a week for 41.4 hours of labor during October. This was reported today by the Bureau of Labor Statistics which said the average weekly paycheck was $1.30 more than during September. The bureau also reported the work week of the average production man was about 25 minutes longer. The government report attributed the increases to "more overtime and increased wage rates."

Macy Quits Suffolk Post; May Fight Dewey Control

Great River, N. Y., Nov. 21 (AP)—A renewed fight against Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's control of the New York state Republican organization by Rep. W. Kingsland Macy appeared possible today after Macy's sudden resignation as Suffolk county G.O.P. chairman.

Macy's resignation as chairman—announced last night—followed his defeat for reelection to Congress.

Macy, recipient of the famed "Hanley letter," lost to Ernest Greenwood, Democrat-Liberal, by 138 votes in a virtually complete canvass of more than 150,000 ballots cast.

In resigning the chairmanship he held 25 years, Macy said in a statement last night:

"At this time and in the period ahead I can render more useful service to the Republican party as an individual than I could as a functioning chairman operating within the state party structure."

Some political circles took this statement as a hint that Macy—long at odds with Gov. Dewey—would press for reorganization of the state party.

Macy had charged soon after the Nov. 7 election that some Republican leaders had not extended themselves to help his campaign for reelection to Congress.

The Long Islander, a former G.O.P. state chairman, followed up his resignation announcement by blasting what he described as "machinations" before and after the Republican state convention at Saratoga Springs last September.

"Never before in my long years in politics," he told the Suffolk

Lewis Addresses Americanism Rally

Clyde A. Less Than 200 Take Part in Rally at City Auditorium

West Point Band Concert Precedes Address by Former Head of V.F.W.

A band concert of an excellence seldom equalled in Kingston, and an inspiring address by Clyde A. Lewis, past national commander of the V.F.W., were the rewards of the small number of persons who braved the rainstorm to attend the Americanism rally at the high school last night.

The attendance of fewer than 200 persons at an Americanism rally was as he expected, said Lewis, who during the past three years traveled 405,000 miles over the country and found only "apathy on the part of people towards Americanism."

"We need many Paul Revere's like the Kingston Joint Americanism Committee," the ex head of the Veterans of Foreign Wars said. "Danger signs are everywhere. This country needs thousands of such meetings."

Lewis traveled from his home in Plattsburg Monday night to attend the meeting here, and had to return home immediately after his talk. Stressing the importance of "waking up," he warned

Broadway Crossing Closes, Traffic Uses New Routes

Detour Signs Are Placed; Chief Van Buren Says Flow of Vehicles Is Satisfactory, Except Smith Avenue Crossing

Kingston's main artery of traffic was severed this morning and traffic flowed satisfactorily over designated detour routes.

Broadway was blocked off at the railroad crossing early today and will remain closed to vehicular traffic until the completion of the grade separation project.

Detour signs were placed to direct traffic over the several previously announced routes. With several exceptions, which are expected to iron themselves out as drivers became more familiar with the temporary routes, the flow of traffic was satisfactory, according to Police Chief Raymond Van Buren.

The most dangerous of the situations which arose this morning occurred at the Smith avenue railroad crossing, where several drivers in bumper-to-bumper traffic found themselves on the railroad tracks as trains were approaching.

The intersections on either side of the rail crossing—the Cornell-Smith and the Grand-Smith corners—are crucial points in the new routing and vehicles "pile up" between the two points.

The resulting problem is one which can be solved only by "common-sense" driving, Chief of Police Van Buren said.

Asks Great Caution

The chief asks that all drivers, approaching the rail crossing in a slowly moving line of traffic, stop before entering upon the tracks and proceed across only after they know there will be enough room for their car to be completely clear of the tracks on the other side.

This morning there were several close calls, but no accidents

Rainmaking Show Is Put On Uptown

New York Water Supply Men See Operation to Drain Skies

Deputy Commissioner Horak of the New York City Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, accompanied by several other officials from the department and also representatives of the budget director's office, were given a demonstration of rainmaking this morning at The Freeman parking lot on Fair street.

The demonstration was given in order to acquaint the officials with the mechanical process which is used by the silver iodide generators which have been widely used during the past season in an effort to augment the water supply.

One of the two generators used by the city of New York was set up and under the direction of Charles Hesley and Joel Kiff, who have been one of the operating crews, and a practical demonstration was given.

Commissioner Horak, with several other officials from the department, toured the Rondout watershed and the Prattsville wa-

Ives Blames President For Bi-Partisan Breakdown

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—Senator Ives (R-NY) said today President Truman will have to take Republicans into his confidence if he wants their backing on foreign policy.

Blaming the President for a breakdown in bi-partisan cooperation, Ives told reporters the Republicans have not been consulted in the past on the formation of many major decisions.

"I am a strong advocate of the bi-partisan foreign policy but we are never going to have any effective cooperation until Republican spokesmen are consulted in the formation of policies," he said.

"Where the bi-partisan policy has fallen down, it has not been the Republicans' fault. Basically, it has been the President's fault and there must be a change in attitude on his part."

Ives, a strong backer of Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) in the latter's role as G.O.P. foreign policy spokesman, added his voice to those who have been urging that Secretary of State Acheson be replaced. The President has said Acheson is staying and Acheson said he had no plans to resign.

"As one of those who supported and voted for Mr. Acheson's confirmation, I have been extremely disappointed in his actions as secretary of state," Ives said.

He said he was not questioning Acheson's integrity but believed the secretary had made mistakes of judgment.

He joined Senator Taft (R-Ohio) in urging a re-examination of ad-

Securities Are Moved

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—The Chemical Bank and Trust Co. revealed yesterday that it had made the biggest movement of valuables in the nation's history early Sunday morning. While 200 police and armed guards turned part of lower Manhattan into a fortress, the bank moved $5,000,000,000 worth of securities from its main office on Broadway to a branch near the stock exchange. The move was planned as a top secret for five months, but only a handful knew it. For security reasons, most of the 200 guards found out what they were doing only at the last moment.

Late Bulletin

State police from Highland barracks were investigating a complaint today that a girl student at New Paltz State Teachers College was hit on the head Monday morning while she sat in one of the dormitories.

Eileen Carozza, 18, of Yonkers told the dean of students that she was hit on the rear of the head as she sat in one of the rooms on the first floor. She could not identify her assailant, the troopers said.

Miss Carozza was treated for a slight laceration of the scalp by Dr. Robert Reid.

Kiddies Remember Officer Welch, Their Traffic Pal

He's not on the corner to escort them across the street any more, but Patrolman James E. Welch is still in the hearts of the children of St. Mary's School.

And, the faithful officer who spent 37 years on the Kingston Police Department, is remembered also by grownups who regarded him as the most courteous policeman on the force.

The living room at his home, 424 Hasbrouck avenue, is literally stacked with "get well" cards sent by his little friends, and adults too, who miss him on his traffic posts.

It was a familiar sight when St. Mary's school was out to see him escort the children across Broadway, the smaller ones by the hand. He always had a smile for them and there was never a grumble from Jimmy.

Traffic duty may be tedious to some, but Patrolman Welch always seemed perfectly composed. Traffic lines couldn't get too long to ruffle his efficiency or good humor.

The children of St. Mary's School showered him with cards when it was announced he was ill, and requested retirement. And, they took up a collection and presented him with a gift. They hope he'll enjoy his days of leisure, and that he'll drop around once in a while to say hello on Connelly's corner.

Adults too sent him cards, especially the pedestrians that have to cross Broadway at the Central Post Office during the busy rush hours when the factories are out.

Everybody got a break when Jimmy was directing traffic, and women bound for home to start supper appreciated his signal for them to cross. His expression, "Over ladies," was more familiar than the ordinary traffic whistle.

Although Patrolman Welch will be missed, his friends are glad his years of labor have entitled him to a rest and they hope he'll enjoy many happy moments in his retirement.

Vernon and Mrs. Albert Keegan of Tyler, Texas; a son, Harold D. Hamilton of Mt. Vernon; one brother, William D. Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—The stock market regained its balance today after wobbling a bit during the morning.

Aside from a handful of issues influenced by corporate developments, price changes were limited to 50 cents a share for the most part. Gains and losses hit a fairly close balance.

The market's action was very similar to business yesterday when traders whipped up a good deal of turnover without pushing prices far one way or another.

Activity was at a rate well below Monday when sales easily topped 2,000,000 shares.

News of a $1.50 year-end extra dividend for Republic Steel stockholders was evidently something of a disappointment. The price showed a net gain of 50 cents at $46.50 before the dividend announcement but this was quickly changed to a loss of around $1.

A 50-cent Chesapeake & Ohio dividend was also greeted with considerable disappointment. The stock dropped more than $2 a share at one time from yesterday's close of $34.75, the best price paid this year.

Also lower were General Motors, Chrysler, Anaconda Copper, Dow Chemical, Santa Fe, Nickel Plate, and Standard Oil (NJ).

Higher prices were paid on and off for U. S. Steel, Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft, Zenith Radio, American Cyanamid, du-Pont, Southern Railway, Erie, Baltimore & Ohio preferred, and U. S. Gypsum.

Rainmaking Show

tershed Monday on an inspection tour. The trip was made in a torrential rain which, while it may have dampened the spirits of the inspection party, added a very considerable amount of water to the storage reservoirs.

The party stopped at the Governor Clinton Hotel and this morning were given a demonstration of rain making. During the demonstration there was light snow flurry which incidentally had commenced prior to the demonstration.

Among those who witnessed the demonstration were Chief Engineer Edward Clark, Deputy Chief Engineer Frank Elder, Administrative Assistant Edward Powers, Division Engineer Fred Stern, District Engineer John Alto and Section Engineer Andy J. Savage of the Kingston office. Accompanying the party on the inspection tour were John O'Connell and Stanley Longhurst of the budget director's office.

To Inspect Plant

After witnessing the rain making demonstration the party hustled off to inspect the new Chelsea pumping plant on the Hudson river which will be used as an emergency supply to pump water from the Hudson river. Shortly after the rain making demonstration the clouds were blown away by a high wind and blue sky appeared over Kingston.

The demonstration this morning was not made for the purpose of inducing rain to fall but simply to give the party its first sight of the process which Dr. Howell introduced to make artificial rain fall.

During the brief operation the process was explained to the group. It was stated the silver iodide operation had been extensively used during the past summer to attempt to augment the water supply. A truck tows a small trailer on which is carried tanks of hydrogen which is burned to evaporate the solution of silver iodide and release into the atmosphere the minute silver iodide particles which are carried aloft by wind to form a nucleus for rain drops as it reaches freezing temperatures high above the earth. These particles form the core for rain drops as they collect frozen moisture at a high elevation and then drop down to higher temperatures where the frozen moisture again becomes liquid and theoretically forms a rain drop. Once the moisture is released the tiny particle of silver iodide again goes aloft to collect another drop of frozen moisture and the process is repeated until the particle finally comes to earth at some distant point.

Broadway Crossing

were reported in that area, police said.

Other than that one problem, the new detour route proved satisfactory but was somewhat slower than the regular Broadway route, Chief Van Buren said.

Takes 5 Extra Minutes

Many persons headed for work this morning failed to allow themselves the approximately five minutes extra time to proceed across the city, and were consequently late for work. When local motorists determine how much time to allow on the new route, no difficulties are expected, the police chief said.

Narrow streets used in the detour have been posted to prohibit parking on one side. Early today motorcycle patrolmen were dispatched to keep the restricted areas free of parked automobiles, and for the most part the public cooperated fully, Chief Van Buren said.

The detours will be in use until completion of the grade crossing elimination project, expected late next summer.

Cotton May Lose Market

Hillsboro, Tex., Nov. 21 (AP)—The high price of cotton may eventually force cotton out of the competitive market with synthetic fibers, a cotton industry leader warned. Burris C. Jackson said the present high price was fully justified "in view of the prices of other commodities and products," but "it would actually be a much healthier situation if all commodities and products, including cotton were at lower prices." Cotton prices rose sharply from $2.75 to $3.00 per bale in the southwest markets yesterday, as a new record high for futures on the New York Cotton Exchange was established.

Will Get Politics

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 21 (AP)—A 23-year-old Holy Cross senior majoring in political science is going to get a real taste of politics even before he gets his college degree. John W. Costello is the new state representative-elect from his home district in Boston. The job in the Massachusetts Legislature pays $3,750 a year. He'll be the youngest member of the incoming House. Young Costello plans what he calls a "split shift"—sandwiching his duties at the State House between college classes in the morning and studying at night.

"I think it is high time that the whole foreign policy be re-examined," Ives said. He added that he thinks it will be, when the new Congress gets underway.

t the same time, Deputy Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett appeared to have headed off a threatened investigation of the reported lack of winter clothing by American troops in Korea.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) had written Secretary of Defense Marshall about these reports.

Lovett replied that except for a few isolated cases American troops had been equipped with winter clothing in Korea, despite "formidable difficulties" in getting supplies to them.

Securities Are Moved

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—The Chemical Bank and Trust Co. revealed yesterday that it had made the biggest movement of valuables in the nation's history early Sunday morning. While 200 police and armed guards turned part of lower Manhattan into a fortress, the bank moved $5,000,000,000 worth of securities from its main office on Broadway to a branch near the stock exchange. The move was planned as a top secret for five months, but only a handful knew it. For security reasons, most of the 200 guards found out what they were doing only at the last moment.

Population Increases

Tokyo, Nov. 21 (AP)—Population of this Japanese capital has increased to 6,275,190, a gain of more than 850,000 since 1945, the news agency Kyodo reported today.

Late Bulletin

State police from Highland barracks were investigating a complaint today that a girl student at New Paltz State Teachers College was hit on the head Monday morning while she sat in one of the dormitories.

Eileen Carozza, 18, of Yonkers told the dean of students that she was hit on the rear of the head as she sat in one of the rooms on the first floor. She could not identify her assailant, the troopers said.

Miss Carozza was treated for a slight laceration of the scalp by Dr. Robert Reid.

Kiddies Remember Officer Welch, Their Traffic Pal

He's not on the corner to escort them across the street any more, but Patrolman James E. Welch is still in the hearts of the children of St. Mary's School.

And, the faithful officer who spent 37 years on the Kingston Police Department, is remembered also by grownups who regarded him as the most courteous policeman on the force.

The living room at his home, 424 Hasbrouck avenue, is literally stacked with "get well" cards sent by his little friends, and adults too, who miss him on his traffic posts.

It was a familiar sight when St. Mary's school was out to see him escort the children across Broadway, the smaller ones by the hand. He always had a smile for them and there was never a grumble from Jimmy.

Traffic duty may be tedious to some, but Patrolman Welch always seemed perfectly composed. Traffic lines couldn't get too long to ruffle his efficiency or good humor.

The children of St. Mary's School showered him with cards when it was announced he was ill, and requested retirement. And, they took up a collection and presented him with a gift. They hope he'll enjoy his days of leisure, and that he'll drop around once in a while to say hello on Connelly's corner.

Adults too sent him cards, especially the pedestrians that have to cross Broadway at the Central Post Office during the busy rush hours when the factories are out.

Everybody got a break when Jimmy was directing traffic, and women bound for home to start supper appreciated his signal for them to cross. His expression, "Over ladies," was more familiar than the ordinary traffic whistle.

Although Patrolman Welch will be missed, his friends are glad his years of labor have entitled him to a rest and they hope he'll enjoy many happy moments in his retirement.

Flatbush Man . . .

verdict being death from accidental cause.

Sergeant Arthur A. Reilly of the Lake Katrine B.C.I. unit was accompanied by Troopers Rasmussen, Nicodemus and Devine to the scene and assisted in the rescue.

Camp Turkey Point is located on the Hudson river near the coast guard station at Turkey Point and includes a number of bungalows as well as the large pavilion.

Sergeant Reilly said at the time the building collapsed a very high wind was blowing and one of the gusts apparently got under the roof, causing the building to collapse.

Surviving Hamilton are his wife, Anna A. Hamilton; three daughters, Mrs. Richard F. Hessdorfer of the Neighborhood Road, Lake Katrine; Mrs. Samuel Diehl of Mt. Vernon and Mrs. Albert Keegan of Tyler, Texas; a son, Harold D. Hamilton of Mt. Vernon; one brother, William D. Hamilton of North Pelham; a sister, Mrs. Ethel Thien of Brooklyn and a half-brother, Harry Katz of the Bronx.

The funeral will be held from the Ernest A. Kelly Funeral Home, 111 West Chester street, Friday at 10 a. m. with burial in Kensico Cemetery.

There was some other storm damage reported from scattered areas, but none of major importance.

The area to the north and west of Kingston reported snowfalls this morning. White topped mountains could be seen in the distance from several sections of the city this morning.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—The stock market regained its balance today after wobbling a bit during the morning.

Aside from a handful of issues influenced by corporate developments, price changes were limited to 50 cents a share for the most part. Gains and losses hit a fairly close balance.

The market's action was very similar to business yesterday when traders whipped up a good deal of turnover without pushing prices far one way or another.

Activity was at a rate well below Monday when sales easily topped 2,000,000 shares.

News of a $1.50 year-end extra dividend for Republic Steel stockholders was evidently something of a disappointment. The price showed a net gain of 50 cents at $46.50 before the dividend announcement but this was quickly changed to a loss of around $1.

A 50-cent Chesapeake & Ohio dividend was also greeted with considerable disappointment. The stock dropped more than $2 a share at one time from yesterday's close of $34.75, the best price paid this year.

Also lower were General Motors, Chrysler, Anaconda Copper, Dow Chemical, Santa Fe, Nickel Plate, and Standard Oil (NJ).

Higher prices were paid on and off for U. S. Steel, Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft, Zenith Radio, American Cyanamid, du-Pont, Southern Railway, Erie, Baltimore & Ohio preferred, and U. S. Gypsum.

Rainmaking Show

tershed Monday on an inspection tour. The trip was made in a torrential rain which, while it may have dampened the spirits of the inspection party, added a very considerable amount of water to the storage reservoirs.

The party stopped at the Governor Clinton Hotel and this morning were given a demonstration of rain making. During the demonstration there was light snow flurry which incidentally had commenced prior to the demonstration.

Among those who witnessed the demonstration were Chief Engineer Edward Clark, Deputy Chief Engineer Frank Elder, Administrative Assistant Edward Powers, Division Engineer Fred Stern, District Engineer John Alto and Section Engineer Andy J. Savage of the Kingston office. Accompanying the party on the inspection tour were John O'Connell and Stanley Longhurst of the budget director's office.

To Inspect Plant

After witnessing the rain making demonstration the party hustled off to inspect the new Chelsea pumping plant on the Hudson river which will be used as an emergency supply to pump water from the Hudson river. Shortly after the rain making demonstration the clouds were blown away by a high wind and blue sky appeared over Kingston.

The demonstration this morning was not made for the purpose of inducing rain to fall but simply to give the party its first sight of the process which Dr. Howell introduced to make artificial rain fall.

During the brief operation the process was explained to the group. It was stated the silver iodide operation had been extensively used during the past summer to attempt to augment the water supply. A truck tows a small trailer on which is carried tanks of hydrogen which is burned to evaporate the solution of silver iodide and release into the atmosphere the minute silver iodide particles which are carried aloft by wind to form a nucleus for rain drops as it reaches freezing temperatures high above the earth. These particles form the core for rain drops as they collect frozen moisture at a high elevation and then drop down to higher temperatures where the frozen moisture again becomes liquid and theoretically forms a rain drop. Once the moisture is released the tiny particle of silver iodide again goes aloft to collect another drop of frozen moisture and the process is repeated until the particle finally comes to earth at some distant point.

Broadway Crossing

were reported in that area, police said.

Other than that one problem, the new detour route proved satisfactory but was somewhat slower than the regular Broadway route, Chief Van Buren said.

Takes 5 Extra Minutes

Many persons headed for work this morning failed to allow themselves the approximately five minutes extra time to proceed across the city, and were consequently late for work. When local motorists determine how much time to allow on the new route, no difficulties are expected, the police chief said.

Narrow streets used in the detour have been posted to prohibit parking on one side. Early today motorcycle patrolmen were dispatched to keep the restricted areas free of parked automobiles, and for the most part the public cooperated fully, Chief Van Buren said.

The detours will be in use until completion of the grade crossing elimination project, expected late next summer.

BABSON'S REPORTS

Cotton May Lose Market

Hillsboro, Tex., Nov. 21 (AP)—The high price of cotton may eventually force cotton out of the competitive market with synthetic fibers, a cotton industry leader warned. Burris C. Jackson said the present high price was fully justified "in view of the prices of other commodities and products," but "it would actually be a much healthier situation if all commodities and products, including cotton were at lower prices." Cotton prices rose sharply from $2.75 to $3.00 per bale in the southwest markets yesterday, as a new record high for futures on the New York Cotton Exchange was established.

Will Get Politics

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 21 (AP)—A 23-year-old Holy Cross senior majoring in political science is going to get a real taste of politics even before he gets his college degree. John W. Costello is the new state representative-elect from his home district in Boston. The job in the Massachusetts Legislature pays $3,750 a year. He'll be the youngest member of the incoming House. Young Costello plans what he calls a "split shift"—sandwiching his duties at the State House between college classes in the morning and studying at night.

Theft Reported

The theft of three cartons of women's blouses from a truck parked at the municipal auditorium Friday night was reported to police Monday evening. Samuel Ptalis of 1 Fountain place, Poughkeepsie, told police the blouses, valued at $190, were taken from a truck owned by Rosenberg and Cohen, 463 West 35th street, New York. No description of the blouses was available at the time of the report.

ministration international policies. Acheson has called such lawmakers "re-examinists," saying they are not much different from isclationists.

"I think it is high time that the whole foreign policy be re-examined," Ives said. He added that he thinks it will be, when the new Congress gets underway.

t the same time, Deputy Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett appeared to have headed off a threatened investigation of the reported lack of winter clothing by American troops in Korea.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) had written Secretary of Defense Marshall about these reports.

Lovett replied that except for a few isolated cases American troops had been equipped with winter clothing in Korea, despite "formidable difficulties" in getting supplies to them.

PERILS OF PROPHECY

Do the Republican off-year gains foreshadow victory in the next presidential election? They did not in 1938, 1942 or 1946. And a Democratic uprising in 1922, cutting down a Republican House majority from 168 to 18, was the prelude to an overwhelming Democratic defeat in 1924.

The mid-term election in Grover Cleveland's second administration showed how rapidly tournovers can come about. In 1892 the Democrats had a House lead of 94; the 1894 election changed that to a minority of 142. Everyone was convinced that the 1896 election would be a mere formality, and that the Democrats stood no chance whatever.

Then came the surprise. Cleveland's enemies captured the party and nominated William J. Bryan on a free silver campaign. Party lines were completely disrupted, and in August the Republican leaders were convinced that Bryan would win. Though the G.O.P. eventually managed to salvage the election, a change of 20,000 votes in four or five states would have put Bryan in the White House.

These sudden changes on the political stage make election forecasting among the most hazardous of occupations.

SAFETY FOR CHILDREN

Contrary to popular opinion, the leading cause of death and disability among children is not polio nor rheumatic heart disease. It is accident. More children are killed by accidents than by any single disease.

That this condition is the responsibility of parents is the consensus among doctors and safety experts. Education to prevent accident should begin as soon as a child starts creeping, and parents should see that such precautions as porch and stair gates and door guards for automobiles are installed as a matter of course.

Safety devices are fine, but the greatest single preventive of accidents to children is parental watchfulness. Until it is certain that they have learned safety rules, small youngsters should never play outdoors unsupervised, nor ever be left alone in a house. These precautions may seem elementary, but the fact remains that they are not universally observed. Children burned to death in fires while left alone make common headlines, and unwatched small fry are often casualties as a result of playing in the street, falling from trees or swings, or wandering away from home. The price of safety for children is constant vigilance on the part of parents.

WEATHER AND CONTROLS

The British Ministry of Agriculture is finding that controls can be applied to farmers, acreages allotted, records demanded and prices guaranteed, but that despite these one unknown still remains to be reckoned with. The weather continues to go its own way.

Every two or three weeks, statistics are tabulated as to crop expectations, but no one really knows what to expect until harvest time, when the crops are safely garnered. Twenty inches of rain in six weeks ruined a great part of many farmers' wheat and hay crops, and at the same time caused an increase in potato and sugar beet yields.

On the whole, in spite of the high cost of farm labor and the endless forms to be filled out, the farmer in Britain is said to be better off today than before the war. During a good year he is assured of a fair price for all his crops, instead of being faced with falling prices due to a glut.

It is a good thing that even the most stringent system of controls must cope with some element of uncertainty. Without this element, a dead level of mediocrity would be more readily achieved, and those at the helm might more easily become intoxicated with power.

TEST SUBSTITUTES

It is said that "imitation is the sincerest flattery." The sincerest flattery for the worth of a test of skill might be found, on the contrary, in the endless need to avoid it.

Ohio police discovered recently an embryonic practice of hiring substitutes to take the road tests required of new applicants for drivers' licenses. Having been discovered in an early stage, the practice was nipped in the bud, presumably before great damage was caused. The dangers in successful operation of such a scheme could be very great.

This was in reality a form of counterfeiting. It is a testimonial to the usefulness of the road test in preventing the licensing of incapable drivers.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE SPY TRIAL

Thus far, the spy trial, which is being held in New York before Judge Irving R. Kaufman, has established that Soviet Russia, our ally in World War II, sent agents into the United States to steal our data on production of chemicals, electronics, war materials and the atom bomb. Such conduct is expected of an enemy, not of an ally. During the period of spying, the United States was provisioning Soviet Russia to the tune of $11,000,000,000.

But this point is being missed: The data now available was already in the hands of the F.B.I. in 1947. Elizabeth Bentley's testimony on that subject is altogether clear. Also Harry Gold and Abraham Brothman established the date.

On May 29, 1947, two F.B.I. agents interrogated Brothman concerning his dealings with Jacob Golos, a Soviet spy, and with Elizabeth Bentley, then a Soviet courier and closely associated with Golos, and with Harry Gold. Bothman told Gold, so the latter testified, that the F.B.I. knew everything.

Among the facts that the F.B.I. knew was that the Amtorg Trading Company was the center of spy activity and the cover-up for spies, couriers, photostating and similar activities. Yet, Amtorg was permitted to exist in this country as a trading business with which American businessmen and government officials consorted. Like "Amerasia," it was a protected organization. Who protected it?

The question must be asked why these men were not indicted: why nothing was done about them until after the British arrested Dr. Klaus Fuchs and the world knew that our atom bomb secrets had been stolen. Fuchs was arrested on February 3, 1950, but the testimony in this trial shows that on May 29, 1947, the F.B.I. had the data. Most of us assumed when Gold, Brothman, Greenglass, and Miss Moskowitz were arrested that the information came from Fuchs, but at the trial, the evidence shows that it came from the F.B.I., which had it in 1947.

Brothman and Gold and whoever else is involved in this miserable business have been free to damage the United States for this prolonged period. It has further been brought out in this trial that the espionage goes back to 1941. Actually, it goes back further than that. It probably goes back as far as the Nye committee of the Senate (1934), which contained among its employes the first important espionage cell in the official life of this country.

This espionage trial, now taking place in New York, is tremendously important and is being inadequately reported. The Hiss trial was perhaps more glamorous, but not more significant. It attracted more attention because there was so strong an effort to cover up for Hiss and to defend him. Even now, some Park avenue liberals believe that three juries were wrong and that Hiss cannot be guilty of the crimes brought out at his trials.

There is no glamour in this present trial. It is just plain dirt. Americans, employed by Soviet Russia, gave to Russia whatever they could lay their hands on. They stole the formulas for buna-S. They stole the atom bomb. They stole our inventions and will use them to kill our sons and in time to destroy our cities.

When this trial is over, the American people need to know who was responsible for making all this possible. It will not be enough to send a couple of punks to prison or even to hang them. We need to know how it was possible for them to do all this stealing. Who let them steal?

Brothman gave Bentley and Gold huge quantities of material, including plans, models and blueprints, large in bulk. Elizabeth Bentley transferred these to Golos, who died in 1943. Gold also transferred some to Semenov, who operated through Amtorg.

These transfers in bulk had to originate where they should have been missed; where they should have been seen. Where were the security officers we hear so much about? What is meant by security in view of this testimony, which is being reported so inadequately? Why is it being reported so inadequately?

In a word, when this trial is over, why will not some congressional committee go into this more fully to discover the big shots?

Punks never can operate unless a big shot permits the operation, and obviously Gold and Brothman are pawns in a big game.

That Body of Yours

INJECTIONS FOR TIC DOLOREUX

In my student days, when I first saw an operation performed for cure of tic doloreux (trigeminal neuralgia), I hoped for the day when such a terrible operation would not be necessary. Today, many cases of this ailment, with its sudden attack of severe pain in face and jaw, can be relieved by injections of various substances—alcohol, phenol, and others.

In Annals of Medicine and Surgery, Barcelona, Drs. Sole Sagarra and Alonso de Otarte direct attention to the number of cases of tic doloreux caused by irritation of the ends of the great nerve of the face (trigeminus). These end branches are situated in the gums and irritation of these nerve ends seems to pull the trigger that starts this terrible pain. The physicians cite a large number of patients of either sex between the ages of 36 and 82 years in whom this facial neuralgia had lasted for five to 15 years. Vitamon B1, X-ray treatment, nicotine acid, bee venom, and histamine (all of which have helped many cases) failed to relieve their symptoms. That these cases were true tic doloreux was shown by the usual symptoms and signs of that disease: pain in the whole trigiminal nerve, the attacks of pain intermittent, not continuous, coming on suddenly and leaving just as suddenly, and the pain not connected with pain in other nerves.

Successful treatment of these cases consisted in injecting the gums with a 20 per cent phenol solution in glycerin at the point of greatest pain at either or both the upper and lower gums. Neuralgia was controlled by the first injection in all cases. In three of six cases, neuralgia returned one or two years after the first injections were given. The pain was milder than it was before the treatment. It was controlled by a second series of injections (infiltration) which was given at the same point. In two cases permanent cure was obtained from one infiltration without any return of the pain, two and five years respectively, after the treatment.

Even after the other methods above mentioned (X-ray, alcohol injections, vitamin treatment) have failed to give relief, the phenol injections method is worth trying before resorting to surgery.

"I'll Hafta Take It Up With the Boss!"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Last week tolerant editors permitted me to expound on certain facts pertaining to Russia—that Russia has never been defeated in a major war except through internal revolt; that our huge armament burden and the Soviet strategy of wars of attrition may wear us down while Moscow gets ready for all-out war; and that our best defense is to take the offensve, penetrate the Iron Curtain and get to the Russian people—some of them already chafing at the bit against the Kremlin.

War documents seized after V-E day have shown conclusively that about three million Russians surrendered to the German army in 1941 because of the revolt against Moscow. There is also conclusive evidence that millions of Russians were friendly toward the United States at the time of V-E day; and that the chief reason for the Iron Curtain was to keep them from knowing the benefits of peace and friendship.

Cracking the Iron Curtain, it should be noted, is not easy. But neither is war easy. And as a step toward cracking it, I would like to propose four rather elementary moves which could be made in Washington.

Move No. 1—President Truman should call in the most powerful leaders of the Republican party—Governor Dewey, Senator Taft, Gov. Warren of California and Senator-elect Duff of Pennsylvania — in an effort to chart a straightforward foreign policy for the nation. We have suffered too much from having foreign policy statements shooting off in different directions. We don't realize that when foreign governments hear the White House say one thing and a group of Senators who have been visiting General MacArthur say another, they don't know which side to believe.

Furthermore, to launch a consistent, constructive propaganda campaign behind the Iron Curtain—or even on this side of the curtain—you must have the support of both political parties and sufficient appropriations from congress. In the past, such penny pinchers as G.O.P. Congressman Taber of New York and Clevenger of Ohio with Senator Byrd of Virginia have slashed propaganda appropriations to ribbons.

A White House conference between the President and top G.O.P. leaders could put the interests of the nation first and help to avoid them in the future.

Move No. 2—Create a government propaganda office entirely separate from the State Department.

Actually, the State Department is doing a far better propaganda job than its congressional critics realize. History will also show that the State Department today, despite the attacks, is functioning more efficiently than ever. However, the smearing of the McCarthy brush has placed the Voice of America with two strikes against it every time it comes before Congress for appropriations.

Furthermore, the State Department never wanted to take over the job of propaganda. It was willed on Secretary of State Jimmie Byrnes when the old Office of War Information was being reorganized, at which time nobody knew exactly what to do with it.

Creation of a separate propaganda office, therefore, cooperating with the State Department, plus the army, navy and air force, would help reestablish congressional confidence, also a certain amount of freedom.

Move No. 3—Bring more top newsmen and public relations experts into the new, reorganized propaganda bureau.

When George Washington appointed a propaganda bureau in the Revolutionary War, he picked the top men of the new nation—Thomas Jefferson, John Adams and Benjamin Franklin. These three served on a committee which smuggled propaganda leaflets behind the British lines and succeeded, among other things, in getting 6,000 out of 30,000 Hessian troops to desert.

During the last war, some of the top newsmen of the nation helped operate the Office of War Information—Palmer Hoyt, publisher of the Denver Post; Mike Cowles, publisher of Look, Quick and the Des Moines Register; Robert Sherwood, the playwright; and Milton Eisenhower, now president of Penn State.

Today, Ed Barrett, former editor of Newsweek and an A-1 man, is patriotically handling propaganda for the State Department, but is handicapped by lack of money and lack of personnel. If his organization were independent, he could get not only more money but top men.

Move No. 4—Create in the United States a "League for a Democratic Russia." Made up of Russian exiles, this committee could function as did the Czechoslovak committee in Pittsburgh in 1918 which led to the disruption of the Austro-Hungarian empire and the founding of the Czechoslovak republic.

Once established in the United States, a "League for a Democratic Russia" could fan out to embrace Russian exiles in England, France, Italy, Yugoslavia, China and the rest of the world. It would be a powerful nucleus through which the Russian people outside the Soviet could speak to the Russian people behind the Iron Curtain.

Along with such a league for a democratic Russia, there should be formed in this country an "American Committee for Democracy in Russia" consisting of Americans whose names carry weight behind the Iron Curtain. This committee should include the leaders of the big American farm organizations, such as the American Farm Bureau, the Grange and the Farmers Union. For Russia is chiefly a nation of peasants with whom the farm leaders of the U.S.A. carry more influence than generals.

On the committee also should be William Green of the A. F. of L., Phil Murray of the C.I.O., David Dubinsky of the Ladies Garment Workers, heads of the Railroad Brotherhoods and so on. These anti-Communist American Labor leaders constitute one of the nations best assets in the battle against communism.

These are just a few of the steps which can be taken in the long, drawn-out battle to crack the Iron Curtain. A lot of other moves should be made, many of a secret nature and not for publication. While we cannot neglect armament and preparedness, a campaign to penetrate the Iron Curtain may in the end bring us greater, quicker and less bloody dividends.

The Palace Where Mice Are Welcome!

No mouse has been killed in the Maharaja's Palace at Chambe, India, since 920. 1130 years ago there was a revolution in the State of Chambe and the reigning Maharaja, Laksmi Varman, was assasinated. His baby son was abandoned in a cave by his fleeing mother. Later the mother returned to reclaim her baby and found that mice were caring for him. When the heir to the throne became Maharaja, he assumed the name of Mushan (mouse). He issued an order that henceforth no mouse may ever be killed in the Palace of Chambe. That order has been implicitly obeyed to the present day.

Acheson Seems to Be Unaware of Effect His Public Statements Will Have

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 21—While Secretary of State Acheson has a fine legal mind and is a man of genuine integrity, he has a blind spot on things political, including the probable reaction of Congress to his public statements.

If the secretary had had any experience in political combat or debate, he never would have exposed himself to counter-attack by commenting flippantly about his critics being no longer isolationists by "re-examinists."

In the first place, it is highly desirable that any public policy should be re-examined at any time to see if it is satisfactory to the people. Nobody can object to constant examination or re-examination, especially of such an important matter as foreign policy, which is supposed to be the concern of all parties, irrespective of politics.

In the second place, Mr. Acheson has just been the target of considerable attack in a campaign in which several Democrats lost their seats in Congress because of the voters' severe criticism of our foreign policy. Immediately after an election it is usually considered tactful and discreet not to pour salt on the wounds of the defeated, much less to give aid and comfort to the victors who have used an issue successfully at the polls.

There is in Congress a growing opposition to the secretary of state among members of the Democratic party. This was no time, therefore, for him to lash out on the offensive, satisfying though it may have been to his inner feelings or emotions. Naturally, Mr. Acheson is getting sick and tired of what he believes to be a series of unjust attacks on him personally by the critics. But the rules of behavior in public life necessitate some concern also for the feelings of those Democrats who have just been through a grueling campaign.

Likewise, it is probably quite satisfactory to the Republicans to have the secretary of state adopt a defiant course toward critics of his foreign policy. It postpones the formulation of any unpartisan policy and tends to stiffen the Republicans, too many of whom would probably be glad to go it alone if that's what the secretary of state has in mind.

All this comes at a time when international relations are tense and when our Far Eastern policy is in a state of flux. It needs re-examination every day. Several months ago it was thought that, by appointing Messrs. Dulles and Cooper to high posts in the government the bi-partisan idea would be strengthened. Experience shows that, no matter how many former senators are appointed to the executive department, the senators and representatives who are actually in the Congress decide for themselves the extent to which they will go along with foreign policies made by the Department of State.

There is really only one way by which Mr. Acheson can bring about a spirit of real cooperation. It is by inviting in his most severe critics and sitting down together with them repeatedly. The perfunctory "bi-partisan" type of conference, called once in a while, will not achieve satisfactory results. The Republicans have complained that they are usually called in after commitments and decisions are made and that they are then asked to ratify them.

It would be much more effective from the administration's viewpoint, and certainly less likely to permit partisan politics to envellop the subject, if the secretary of state consulted directly with the leaders of both parties in the Senate and the House. It is a task that cannot be delegated. By keeping a record of what happens in these conferences, the secretary will be in a position to inform the public later on what has been done toward the evolution of our foreign policy by both parties.

The initiative in discarding partisanship has to come from the administration, however, and it has to be wholehearted. Speeches ridiculing "re-examinists" will do more harm than good.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York Nov. 20 — The response of some teachers to recent observations of mine on the public school racket tends to confirm my belief that many of these people themselves are not educated and do not know what education is.

Some, being incapable of thinking, leap to the angry conclusion that in examining the conduct of the racket as a whole I was attacking the character and fidelity of the individual teacher. It has taken a long time to convince unlettered millions of toilers that I am defending their rights when I attack the ruthless and predatory institution of unionism. One might have expected that teachers, professing to be capable of "educating" our youth, would have the skilled intelligence to understand that they occupy a similar status in their relation to the overall racket of education. This racket exploits them and their pupils in a reach for power. However, if I may say so, I didn't expect too much of them. On the average, they have been taught but not educated.

Here is a letter from the wife of a high school teacher employed in a school near Detroit. His basic pay is only $2,600 a year, plus $100 for coaching one sport. Of course this means a year of ten months or slightly less. Her husband is at liberty to work for pay during the summer vacation.

Even so, it is a poor job, considered as a job. However, the glaring fact is that this young woman, the wife of an "educator," regards the coaching of students in team sports as education. This is a common American fallacy. We even give degrees in something called "physical education." I will go into this subject only far enough to point out that our concept of education has strayed so far from the pursuit of intellectual knowledge in our devouring public school system that our youth deem it a duty of the state to teach them how to play games. Parents educated in the same system cherish the same error. Teachers have been trained to regard this as a normal and correct function of public education. So, naturally, they wail that they are put upon when they are required to teach children proficiently in the hookslide after their classroom hours.

Unquestionably this young woman's husband is wronged when he is required to spend "at least two hours at least three times a week for a basketball and four hours the night of the game" and to "get to a football game at 6:30 p. m., when it doesn't start until 8 because someone has to open the gates for the cars and collect tickets."

But that is a problem of labor relations, not education.

Another letter comes from a teacher in Ferndale, Mich., whose use of the language is comment on her own education.

"You see," she says, "they, to, are individual human beings."

The important distinction between "to" and "too" is unknown to this educator.

Further she writes: "It's these results that make teaching worth while." Nobody ever succeeded in teaching this teacher that a singular does not consist with a plural.

The New Bedford Standard-Times published some vehement popular comments and the Elmira Advertiser carried an article reporting that Attorney Thomas J. Flynn, chairman of the Board of Education, told a meeting of the Elmira women classroom teachers, that "the profession of journalism is an honorable one until it is traduced by such as Pegler."

Anyone qualified for the position of chairman of the Board of Education should know that the word "traduce" was inappropriate here. It was the profession of pedagogy, not journalism, that was "traduced." In his rage, he may have meant to say that journalism was disgraced or degraded, but in the lack of any reference to journalism in my essays, Mr. Flynn is in error. I refer this problem to a junior class in English.

A reader in Winchester, Mass., wrote: "In our town, many children learn neither to spell nor write. Many examples of this came from our boys who served in World War II in their letters home. Our town meetings are ganged by a powerful lobby year after year for more money for the school department. A considerable segment of our population who have no children in public school have to be content with a street lighting system fifty years behind the time and inadequate sidewalks because our school system drains off so many tax dollars."

A woman teacher in St. Petersburg, Fla., betrays the class bigotry of the New Deal which has been forced upon millions of children who will grow up with distorted minds because they were exposed to applied ignorance under statutory compulsion.

My temperate, enlightened examination of the education racket was just "my way of getting back at the schools for increasing my taxes." There is no inspection of my facts or charges, and the rest of the letter discloses that the lady is incapable of thoughtful consideration of the situation.

She also resorts to a cliche of the ignorant when she writes: "All teachers are not good." She is too ill-taught in the language which she presumes to teach to children that she says exactly the opposite of her intention. "All teachers are not good" means that no teacher is good. Undoubtedly she meant to say that "not all teachers are good."

A letter on the letterhead of the "office of principal, Van Etten Central School, Van Etten, New York" addressed to me at the Elmira Advertiser, contains the following remarks which, to me, are not models of expression in the English language:

"You resent increase to state contribution for education—"

"There are very few teachers that could not enter other industries and earn much more than they are at present."

"Your resentment to the vested rights of the teachers over pupils to me appears a very urgent need in this present day of parental indifference to build character and a sense of decency."

"Only those who have nerves of steel and hearts as big as their bodies and a sense of humanity towards others continues to take the abuses which are hurled at them by people in the local community and other fields of endeavor."

Aside from the interesting irregularities of language used in these extracts I find myself wondering whether this savant meant to admit that "education" is indeed an industry, as I suggested in an earlier letter. I am puzzled also by the implication that a community and certain fields of endeavor are necessarily several.

PERILS OF PROPHECY

Do the Republican off-year gains foreshadow victory in the next presidential election? They did not in 1938, 1942 or 1946. And a Democratic uprising in 1922, cutting down a Republican House majority from 168 to 18, was the prelude to an overwhelming Democratic defeat in 1924.

The mid-term election in Grover Cleveland's second administration showed how rapidly tournovers can come about. In 1892 the Democrats had a House lead of 94; the 1894 election changed that to a minority of 142. Everyone was convinced that the 1896 election would be a mere formality, and that the Democrats stood no chance whatever.

Then came the surprise. Cleveland's enemies captured the party and nominated William J. Bryan on a free silver campaign. Party lines were completely disrupted, and in August the Republican leaders were convinced that Bryan would win. Though the G.O.P. eventually managed to salvage the election, a change of 20,000 votes in four or five states would have put Bryan in the White House.

These sudden changes on the political stage make election forecasting among the most hazardous of occupations.

SAFETY FOR CHILDREN

Contrary to popular opinion, the leading cause of death and disability among children is not polio nor rheumatic heart disease. It is accident. More children are killed by accidents than by any single disease.

That this condition is the responsibility of parents is the consensus among doctors and safety experts. Education to prevent accident should begin as soon as a child starts creeping, and parents should see that such precautions as porch and stair gates and door guards for automobiles are installed as a matter of course.

Safety devices are fine, but the greatest single preventive of accidents to children is parental watchfulness. Until it is certain that they have learned safety rules, small youngsters should never play outdoors unsupervised, nor ever be left alone in a house. These precautions may seem elementary, but the fact remains that they are not universally observed. Children burned to death in fires while left alone make common headlines, and unwatched small fry are often casualties as a result of playing in the street, falling from trees or swings, or wandering away from home. The price of safety for children is constant vigilance on the part of parents.

WEATHER AND CONTROLS

The British Ministry of Agriculture is finding that controls can be applied to farmers, acreages allotted, records demanded and prices guaranteed, but that despite these one unknown still remains to be reckoned with. The weather continues to go its own way.

Every two or three weeks, statistics are tabulated as to crop expectations, but no one really knows what to expect until harvest time, when the crops are safely garnered. Twenty inches of rain in six weeks ruined a great part of many farmers' wheat and hay crops, and at the same time caused an increase in potato and sugar beet yields.

On the whole, in spite of the high cost of farm labor and the endless forms to be filled out, the farmer in Britain is said to be better off today than before the war. During a good year he is assured of a fair price for all his crops, instead of being faced with falling prices due to a glut.

It is a good thing that even the most stringent system of controls must cope with some element of uncertainty. Without this element, a dead level of mediocrity would be more readily achieved, and those at the helm might more easily become intoxicated with power.

TEST SUBSTITUTES

It is said that "imitation is the sincerest flattery." The sincerest flattery for the worth of a test of skill might be found, on the contrary, in the artifices used to avoid it.

Ohio police discovered recently an embryonic practice of hiring substitutes to take the road tests required of new applicants for drivers' licenses. Having been discovered in an early stage, the practice was nipped in the bud, presumably before great damage was caused. The dangers in successful operation of such a scheme could be very great.

This is in reality a form of counterfeiting. It is a testimonial to the usefulness of the road test in preventing the licensing of incapable drivers.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE SPY TRIAL

Thus far, the spy trial, which is being held in New York before Judge Irving R. Kaufman, has established that Soviet Russia, our ally in World War II, sent agents into the United States to steal our data on production of chemicals, electronics, war materials and the atom bomb. Such conduct is expected of an enemy, not of an ally. During the period of spying, the United States was provisioning Soviet Russia to the tune of $11,000,000,000.

But this point is being missed: The data now available was already in the hands of the F.B.I. in 1947. Elizabeth Bentley's testimony on that subject is altogether clear. Also Harry Gold and Abraham Brothman established the date.

On May 29, 1947, two F.B.I. agents interrogated Brothman concerning his dealings with Jacob Golos, a Soviet spy, and with Elizabeth Bentley, then a Soviet courier and closely associated with Golos, and with Harry Gold. Bothman told Gold, so the latter testified, that the F.B.I. knew everything.

Among the facts that the F.B.I. knew was that the Amtorg Trading Company was the center of spy activity and the cover-up for spies, couriers, photostating and similar activities. Yet, Amtorg was permitted to exist in this country as a trading business with which American businessmen and government officials consorted. Like "Amerasia," it was a protected organization. Who protected it?

The question must be asked why these men were not indicted: why nothing was done about them until after the British arrested Dr. Klaus Fuchs and the world knew that our atom bomb secrets had been stolen. Fuchs was arrested on February 3, 1950, but the testimony in this trial shows that on May 29, 1947, the F.B.I. had the data. Most of us assumed when Gold, Brothman, Greenglass, and Miss Moskowitz were arrested that the information came from Fuchs, but at the trial, the evidence shows that it came from the F.B.I., which had it in 1947.

Brothman and Gold and whoever else is involved in this miserable business have been free to damage the United States for this prolonged period. It has further been brought out in this trial that the espionage goes back to 1941. Actually, it goes back further than that. It probably goes back as far as the Nye committee of the Senate (1934), which contained among its employes the first important espionage cell in the official life of this country.

This espionage trial, now taking place in New York, is tremendously important and is being inadequately reported. The Hiss trial was perhaps more glamorous, but not more significant. It attracted more attention because there was so strong an effort to cover up for Hiss and to defend him. Even now, some Park avenue liberals believe that three juries were wrong and that Hiss cannot be guilty of the crimes brought out at his trials.

There is no glamour in this present trial. It is just plain dirt. Americans, employed by Soviet Russia, gave to Russia whatever they could lay their hands on. They stole the formulas for buna-S. They stole the atom bomb. They stole our inventions and will use them to kill our sons and in time to destroy our cities.

When this trial is over, the American people need to know who was responsible for making all this possible. It will not be enough to send a couple of punks to prison or even to hang them. We need to know how it was possible for them to do all this stealing. Who let them steal?

Brothman gave Bentley and Gold huge quantities of material, including plans, models and blueprints, large in bulk. Elizabeth Bentley transferred these to Golos, who died in 1943. Gold also transferred some to Semenov, who operated through Amtorg.

These transfers in bulk had to originate where they should have been missed; where they should have been seen. Where were the security officers we hear so much about? What is meant by security in view of this testimony, which is being reported so inadequately? Why is it being reported so inadequately?

In a word, when this trial is over, why will not some congressional committee go into this more fully to discover the big shots?

Punks never can operate unless a big shot permits the operation, and obviously Gold and Brothman are pawns in a big game.

INJECTIONS FOR TIC DOLOREUX

In my student days, when I first saw an operation performed for cure of tic doloreux (trigeminal neuralgia), I hoped for the day when such a terrible operation would not be necessary. Today, many cases of this ailment, with its sudden attack of severe pain in face and jaw, can be relieved by injections of various substances—alcohol, phenol, and others.

In Annals of Medicine and Surgery, Barcelona, Drs. Sole Sagarra and Alonso de Otarte direct attention to the number of cases of tic doloreux caused by irritation of the ends of the great nerve of the face (trigeminus). These end branches are situated in the gums and irritation of these nerve ends seems to pull the trigger that starts this terrible pain. The physicians cite a large number of patients of either sex between the ages of 36 and 82 years in whom this facial neuralgia had lasted for five to 15 years. Vitamon B1, X-ray treatment, nicotine acid, bee venom, and histamine (all of which have helped many cases) failed to relieve their symptoms. That these cases were true tic doloreux was shown by the usual symptoms and signs of that disease: pain in the whole trigiminal nerve, the attacks of pain intermittent, not continuous, coming on suddenly and leaving just as suddenly, and the pain not connected with pain in other nerves.

Successful treatment of these cases consisted in injecting the gums with a 20 per cent phenol solution in glycerin at the point of greatest pain at either or both the upper and lower gums. Neuralgia was controlled by the first injection in all cases. In three of six cases, neuralgia returned one or two years after the first injections were given. The pain was milder than it was before the treatment. It was controlled by a second series of injections (infiltration) which was given at the same point. In two cases permanent cure was obtained from one infiltration without any return of the pain, two and five years respectively, after the treatment.

Even after the other methods above mentioned (X-ray, alcohol injections, vitamin treatment) have failed to give relief, the phenol injections method is worth trying before resorting to surgery.

"I'll Hafta Take It Up With the Boss!"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Last week tolerant editors permitted me to expound on certain facts pertaining to Russia—that Russia has never been defeated in a major war except through internal revolt; that our huge armament burden and the Soviet strategy of wars of attrition may wear us down while Moscow gets ready for all-out war; and that our best defense is to take the offensve, penetrate the Iron Curtain and get to the Russian people—some of them already chafing at the bit against the Kremlin.

War documents seized after V-E day have shown conclusively that about three million Russians surrendered to the German army in 1941 because of the revolt against Moscow. There is also conclusive evidence that millions of Russians were friendly toward the United States at the time of V-E day; and that the chief reason for the Iron Curtain was to keep them from knowing the benefits of peace and friendship.

Cracking the Iron Curtain, it should be noted, is not easy. But neither is war easy. And as a step toward cracking it, I would like to propose four rather elementary moves which could be made in Washington.

Move No. 1—President Truman should call in the most powerful leaders of the Republican party—Governor Dewey, Senator Taft, Gov. Warren of California and Senator-elect Duff of Pennsylvania — in an effort to chart a straightforward foreign policy for the nation. We have suffered too much from having foreign policy statements shooting off in different directions. We don't realize that when foreign governments hear the White House say one thing and a group of Senators who have been visiting General MacArthur say another, they don't know which side to believe.

Furthermore, to launch a consistent, constructive propaganda campaign behind the Iron Curtain—or even on this side of the curtain—you must have the support of both political parties and sufficient appropriations from congress. In the past, such penny pinchers as G.O.P. Congressman Taber of New York and Clevenger of Ohio with Senator Byrd of Virginia have slashed propaganda appropriations to ribbons.

A White House conference between the President and top G.O.P. leaders could put the interests of the nation first and help to avoid them in the future.

Move No. 2—Create a government propaganda office entirely separate from the State Department.

Actually, the State Department is doing a far better propaganda job than its congressional critics realize. History will also show that the State Department today, despite the attacks, is functioning more efficiently than ever. However, the smearing of the McCarthy brush has placed the Voice of America with two strikes against it every time it comes before Congress for appropriations.

Furthermore, the State Department never wanted to take over the job of propaganda. It was willed on Secretary of State Jimmie Byrnes when the old Office of War Information was being reorganized, at which time nobody knew exactly what to do with it.

Creation of a separate propaganda office, therefore, cooperating with the State Department, plus the army, navy and air force, would help reestablish congressional confidence, also a certain amount of freedom.

Move No. 3—Bring more top newsmen and public relations experts into the new, reorganized propaganda bureau.

When George Washington appointed a propaganda bureau in the Revolutionary War, he picked the top men of the new nation—Thomas Jefferson, John Adams and Benjamin Franklin. These three served on a committee which smuggled propaganda leaflets behind the British lines and succeeded, among other things, in getting 6,000 out of 30,000 Hessian troops to desert.

During the last war, some of the top newsmen of the nation helped operate the Office of War Information—Palmer Hoyt, publisher of the Denver Post; Mike Cowles, publisher of Look, Quick and the Des Moines Register; Robert Sherwood, the playwright; and Milton Eisenhower, now president of Penn State.

Today, Ed Barrett, former editor of Newsweek and an A-1 man, is patriotically handling propaganda for the State Department, but is handicapped by lack of money and lack of personnel. If his organization were independent, he could get not only more money but top men.

Move No. 4—Create in the United States a "League for a Democratic Russia." Made up of Russian exiles, this committee could function as did the Czechoslovak committee in Pittsburgh in 1918 which led to the disruption of the Austro-Hungarian empire and the founding of the Czechoslovak republic.

Once established in the United States, a "League for a Democratic Russia" could fan out to embrace Russian exiles in England, France, Italy, Yugoslavia, China and the rest of the world. It would be a powerful nucleus through which the Russian people outside the Soviet could speak to the Russian people behind the Iron Curtain.

Along with such a league for a democratic Russia, there should be formed in this country an "American Committee for Democracy in Russia" consisting of Americans whose names carry weight behind the Iron Curtain. This committee should include the leaders of the big American farm organizations, such as the American Farm Bureau, the Grange and the Farmers Union. For Russia is chiefly a nation of peasants with whom the farm leaders of the U.S.A. carry more influence than generals.

On the committee also should be William Green of the A. F. of L., Phil Murray of the C.I.O., David Dubinsky of the Ladies Garment Workers, heads of the Railroad Brotherhoods and so on. These anti-Communist American Labor leaders constitute one of the nations best assets in the battle against communism.

These are just a few of the steps which can be taken in the long, drawn-out battle to crack the Iron Curtain. A lot of other moves should be made, many of a secret nature and not for publication. While we cannot neglect armament and preparedness, a campaign to penetrate the Iron Curtain may in the end bring us greater, quicker and less bloody dividends.

The Palace Where Mice Are Welcome!

No mouse has been killed in the Maharaja's Palace at Chambe, India, since 320, 1130 years ago there was a revolution in the State of Chambe and the reigning Maharaja, Laksmi Varman, was assassinated. His baby son was abandoned in a cave by his fleeing mother. Later the mother returned to reclaim her baby and found that mice were caring for him. When the heir to the throne became Maharaja, he assumed the name of Mushan (mouse). He issued an order that henceforth no mouse may ever be killed in the Palace of Chambe. That order has been implicitly obeyed to the present day.

Acheson Seems to Be Unaware of Effect His Public Statements Will Have

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 21—While Secretary of State Acheson has a fine legal mind and is a man of genuine integrity, he has a blind spot on things political, including the probable reaction of Congress to his public statements.

If the secretary had had any experience in political combat or debate, he never would have exposed himself to counter-attack by commenting flippantly about his critics being no longer isolationists by "re-examinists."

In the first place, it is highly desirable that any public policy should be re-examined at any time to see if it is satisfactory to the people. Nobody can object to constant examination or re-examination, especially of such an important matter as foreign policy, which is supposed to be the concern of all parties, irrespective of politics.

In the second place, Mr. Acheson has just been the target of considerable attack in a campaign in which several Democrats lost their seats in Congress because of the voters' severe criticism of our foreign policy. Immediately after an election it is usually considered tactful and discreet not to pour salt on the wounds of the defeated, much less to give aid and comfort to the victors who have used an issue successfully at the polls.

There is in Congress a growing opposition to the secretary of state among members of the Democratic party. This was no time, therefore, for him to lash out on the offensive, satisfying though it may have been to his inner feelings or emotions. Naturally, Mr. Acheson is getting sick and tired of what he believes to be a series of unjust attacks on him personally by the critics. But the rules of behavior in public life necessitate some concern also for the feelings of those Democrats who have just been through a grueling campaign.

Likewise, it is probably quite satisfactory to the Republicans to have the secretary of state adopt a defiant course toward critics of his foreign policy. It postpones the formulation of any unpartisan policy and tends to stiffen the Republicans, too many of whom would probably be glad to go it alone if that's what the secretary of state has in mind.

All this comes at a time when international relations are tense and when our Far Eastern policy is in a state of flux. It needs re-examination every day. Several months ago it was thought that, by appointing Messrs. Dulles and Cooper to high posts in the government the bi-partisan idea would be strengthened. Experience shows that, no matter how many former senators are appointed to the executive department, the senators and representatives who are actually in the Congress decide for themselves the extent to which they will go along with foreign policies made by the Department of State.

There is really only one way by which Mr. Acheson can bring about a spirit of real cooperation. It is by inviting in his most severe critics and sitting down together with them repeatedly. The perfunctory "bi-partisan" type of conference, called once in a while, will not achieve satisfactory results. The Republicans have complained that they are usually called in after commitments and decisions are made and that they are then asked to ratify them.

It would be much more effective from the administration's viewpoint, and certainly less likely to permit partisan politics to envellop the subject, if the secretary of state consulted directly with the leaders of both parties in the Senate and the House. It is a task that cannot be delegated. By keeping a record of what happens in these conferences, the secretary will be in a position to inform the public later on what has been done toward the evolution of our foreign policy by both parties.

The initiative in discarding partisanship has to come from the administration, however, and it has to be wholehearted. Speeches ridiculing "re-examinists" will do more harm than good.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York Nov. 20—The response of some teachers to recent observations of mine on the public school racket tends to confirm my belief that many of these people themselves are not educated and do not know what education is.

Some, being incapable of thinking, leap to the angry conclusion that in examining the conduct of the racket as a whole I was attacking the character and fidelity of the individual teacher. It has taken a long time to convince unlettered millions of toilers that I am defending their rights when I attack the ruthless and predatory institution of unionism. One might have expected that teachers, professing to be capable of "educating" our youth, would have the skilled intelligence to understand that they occupy a similar status in their relation to the overall racket of education. This racket exploits them and their pupils in a reach for power. However, if I may say so, I didn't expect too much of them. On the average, they have been taught but not educated.

Here is a letter from the wife of a high school teacher employed in a school near Detroit. His basic pay is only $2,600 a year, plus $100 for coaching one sport. Of course this means a year of ten months or slightly less. Her husband is at liberty to work for pay during the summer vacation.

Even so, it is a poor job, considered as a job. However, the glaring fact is that this young woman, the wife of an "educator," regards the coaching of students in team sports as education. This is a common American fallacy. We even give degrees in something called "physical education." I will go into this subject only far enough to point out that our concept of education has strayed so far from the pursuit of intellectual knowledge in our devouring public school system that our youth deem it a duty of the state to teach them how to play games. Parents educated in the same system cherish the same error. Teachers have been trained to regard this as a normal and correct function of public education. So, naturally, they wail that they are put upon when they are required to teach children proficiently in the hookslide after their classroom hours.

Unquestionably this young woman's husband is wronged when he is required to spend "at least two hours at least three times a week for a basketball and four hours the night of the game" and to "get to a football game at 6:30 p. m., when it doesn't start until 8 because someone has to open the gates for the cars and collect tickets."

But that is a problem of labor relations, not education.

Another letter comes from a teacher in Ferndale, Mich., whose use of the language is comment on her own education.

"You see," she says, "they, to, are individual human beings."

The important distinction between "to" and "too" is unknown to this educator.

Further she writes: "It's these results that make teaching worth while." Nobody ever succeeded in teaching this teacher that a singular does not consist with a plural.

The New Bedford Standard-Times published some vehement popular comments and the Elmira Advertiser carried an article reporting that Attorney Thomas J. Flynn, chairman of the Board of Education, told a meeting of the Elmira women classroom teachers, that "the profession of journalism is an honorable one until it is traduced by such as Pegler."

Anyone qualified for the position of chairman of the Board of Education should know that the word "traduce" was inappropriate here. It was the profession of pedagogy, not journalism, that was "traduced." In his rage, he may have meant to say that journalism was disgraced or degraded, but in the lack of any reference to journalism in my essays, Mr. Flynn is in error. I refer this problem to a junior class in English.

A reader in Winchester, Mass., wrote: "In our town, many children learn neither to spell nor write. Many examples of this came from our boys who served in World War II in their letters home. Our town meetings are ganged by a powerful lobby year after year for more money for the school department. A considerable segment of our population who have no children in public school have to be content with a street lighting system fifty years behind the time and inadequate sidewalks because our school system drains off so many tax dollars."

A woman teacher in St. Petersburg, Fla., betrays the class bigotry of the New Deal which has been forced upon millions of children who will grow up with distorted minds because they were exposed to applied ignorance under statutory compulsion.

My temperate, enlightened examination of the education racket was just "my way of getting back at the schools for increasing my taxes." There is no inspection of my facts or charges, and the rest of the letter discloses that the lady is incapable of thoughtful consideration of the situation.

She also resorts to a cliche of the ignorant when she writes: "All teachers are not good." She is too ill-taught in the language which she presumes to teach to children that she says exactly the opposite of her intention. "All teachers are not good" means that no teacher is good. Undoubtedly she meant to say that "not all teachers are good."

A letter on the letterhead of the "office of principal, Van Etten Central School, Van Etten, New York" addressed to me at the Elmira Advertiser, contains the following remarks which, to me, are not models of expression in the English language:

"You resent increase to state contribution for education—"

"There are very few teachers that could not enter other industries and earn much more than they are at present."

"Your resentment to the vested rights of the teachers over pupils to me appears a very urgent need in this present day of parental indifference to build character and a sense of decency."

"Only those who have nerves of steel and hearts as big as their bodies and a sense of humanity towards others continues to take the abuses which are hurled at them by people in the local community and other fields of endeavor."

Aside from the interesting irregularities of language used in these extracts I find myself wondering whether this savant meant to admit that "education" is indeed an industry, as I suggested in an earlier letter. I am puzzled also by the implication that a community and certain fields of endeavor are necessarily several.

Impellitteri Men Win One Round

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Democratic leaders backing Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri have won a round in a fight against the Tammany Hall leadership of Carmine G. DeSapio.

The Impellitteri men, with a court writ, prevented a meeting of the New York county (Manhattan) Democratic committee which DeSapio had called for last night.

The meeting had been scheduled to designate DeSapio for another term on the Board of Elections, a $12,000-a-year job.

Although this move was stymied—at least temporarily—DeSapio won a majority vote of Tammany Hall's top ruling body in his bid for re-election to the elections board.

State Supreme Court Justice Densi O'Leary Cohalan yesterday issued an order restraining the meeting—with a potential attendance of 13,000—from being held in Cooper Union, a hall seating only about 1,500.

The restraint was obtained by Robert B. Blaikie, an insurgent Tammany district leader and Impellitteri strategist.

The justice ruled the meeting would have to be held in a larger placce.

Would 'Pack Hall'

Blaikie had told newsmen that DeSapio planned to "pack the hall with his own back-room boys while Mayor Impellitteri is away from the city and unable to fight." The mayor is away on vacation.

The injunction was appealed to the Appellate Division of the State Supreme Court.

DeSapio's re-election as elections commissioner was approved, 52 to 14, late yesterday by Tammany's ruling group—the executive committee of the county Democratic committee. The vote is subject to confirmation at a meeting of the full committee.

The 52-14 vote indicated defections from DeSapio's ranks in the wake of Impelliterri's rout of Tammany Hall Nov. 1 when the Democratic mayor won election as an independent.

Rocket Puzzles Experts

New York, Nov. 21 (AP) — A rocket dredged up by fishermen offshore yesterday still had army and navy technicians puzzled today. The 400-pound rocket came up in the net of scallop fishermen about 40 miles out in the Atlantic. They brought it ashore at Mill Basin in Brooklyn and called nearby Floyd Bennett Field, navy air base. There were no markings to identify it, and it was kept on hand for further study and classification today.

Six Men Injured

Detroit, Nov. 21 (AP)—An explosion periled a gang of workmen 95 feet underground in an East Side water conduit last night. Six men were injured and four companions escaped harm while making a risky flight to safety. An accumulation of marsh gas, ignited by a spark, was believed the cause.

A dispersal unit of the British navy still is busy eliminating an estimated 500 wrecks left around English shores as a result of World War 2.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL — By CHARLES DICKENS

The place, a street in London. The time, the afternoon of Christmas Eve, 1843. The prevailing greeting, "Merry Christmas!"

But there was no sound of "Merry Christmas" at Scrooge and Marley's Counting House.

Although the firm kept the old name, Jacob Marley had been dead seven years this day. The surviving partner, Ebenezer Scrooge, had a heart unsullied by the milk of human kindness.

WHY DO STOCK PRICES CHANGE ?

Imagine a typical auction. The auctioneer is calling for bids on some early American chairs. He points to one.

"I hear $40. Forty-five? Thank you, sir!

"Will someone make it fifty? Forty-five I have—a lady bids $50. Fifty-five over there—and sixty?

"Sixty, a bargain at $60. Sixty-five? Do I hear sixty-five? ...Sold for $60."

On the New York Stock Exchange there is a continuing auction... in stocks. But unlike the country auction, the Stock Exchange is a market place for securities in which thousands of investors, from all over the country, participate daily. Their orders are serviced by its members, acting as their agents, every business day.

Actually, it's a double auction, working both ways. Bidders want to buy their stock from sellers at the lowest possible price. Sellers want to get the highest price for the shares they are offering. When a buyer's bid and a seller's offer arrive at a mutually acceptable price, a purchase is completed, a sale is made... at the best price available in this national market, at that moment.

That's the kind of give and take going on all the time at the Exchange, in the 1,500 stocks that are listed. That's why stock prices change. A buyer whose bid is too low can raise it. An offer to sell that is too high can be lowered. It's an auction market... for buyers and sellers.

All kinds of factors influence people to buy or sell... earnings and dividends... purchasing power of the dollar ...new production records... a war won or threatened... a change in tax laws... strike news... other factors.

The Exchange does not set prices. Prices are determined by the public's appraisals of the attraction of stocks in terms of benefits offered and risk assumed. The Exchange does, however, see that prices are arrived at openly and fairly, and published promptly.

When you buy or sell a share of stock, you buy or sell a share of a business, an interest in everything that company has. Information about any corporation's operations and financial condition, its earnings and dividend record—facts essential to our investment decision—are yours for the asking, without obligation, at offices of member firms of the New York Stock Exchange. They are located in 377 cities.

Nancy Kiff Wins Kiwanis Club Prize

"Heap Good Medicine" is the title of the first prize poster done by Nancy Kiff to advertise the Kiwanis Kapers, scheduled to be held at the high school auditorium November 27 and 28.

Each year a committee of Kiwanis Club members judge posters submitted to them by members of the Kingston High School art classes. The posters boost the Kapers, an annual variety show staged by Kiwanis to raise money for its scholarship fund.

Second prize this year went to Frank Larkin, who chose as a theme the Dutch coming up the river at Kingston. Rose Vadilli won third prize with her poster, "I'll See You at Kiwanis Kapers."

The posters are displayed this week in various city stores.

On the New York Stock Exchange there is a continuing auction... in stocks. But unlike the country auction, the Stock Exchange is a market place for securities in which thousands of investors, from all over the country, participate daily. Their orders are serviced by its members, acting as their agents, every business day.

Actually, it's a double auction, working both ways. Bidders want to buy their stock from sellers at the lowest possible price. Sellers want to get the highest price for the shares they are offering. When a buyer's bid and a seller's offer arrive at a mutually acceptable price, a purchase is completed, a sale is made... at the best price available in this national market, at that moment.

That's the kind of give and take going on all the time at the Exchange, in the 1,500 stocks that are listed. That's why stock prices change. A buyer whose bid is too low can raise it. An offer to sell that is too high can be lowered. It's an auction market...for buyers and sellers.

All kinds of factors influence people to buy or sell... earnings and dividends... purchasing power of the dollar ...new production records... a war won or threatened... a change in tax laws... strike news... other factors.

The Exchange does not set prices. Prices are determined by the public's appraisals of the attraction of stocks in terms of benefits offered and risk assumed. The Exchange does, however, see that prices are arrived at openly and fairly, and published promptly.

When you buy or sell a share of stock, you buy or sell a share of a business, an interest in everything that company has. Information about any corporation's operations and financial condition, its earnings and dividend record—facts essential to an investment decision—are yours for the asking, without obligation, at offices of member firms of the New York Stock Exchange. They are located in 377 cities.

Nancy Kiff Wins Kiwanis Club Prize

"Heap Good Medicine" is the title of the first prize poster done by Nancy Kiff to advertise the Kiwanis Kapers, scheduled to be held at the high school auditorium November 27 and 28.

Each year a committee of Kiwanis Club members judge posters submitted to them by members of the Kingston High School art classes. The posters boost the Kapers, an annual variety show staged by Kiwanis to raise money for its scholarship fund.

Second prize this year went to Frank Larkin, who chose as a theme the Dutch coming up the river at Kingston. Rose Vadilli won third prize with her poster, "I'll See You at Kiwanis Kapers."

The posters are displayed this week in various city stores.

Candy Seller Killed

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Valentino Hornido, a 61-year-old Cuban candy seller, was shot to death last night as he climbed the stairs to his East Harlem apartment. Police, who had no immediate clue to the killer, said a neighbor told them he heard an argument in Spanish, and then a shot. The neighbor, Michael Padovani, ran upstairs to find Hornido dying in the hallway from a shot in the eye. Police said Hornido had just closed his candy store, next door to the tenement at 133 East 117th street. They were investigating the possibility of a robbery. Hornido had 11 children by his estranged wife, Rose Hornido, detectives said.

ChargedWithPettyLarceny

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Three detectives chased and captured a six-foot longshoreman yesterday—after, they said, he stole a $22 handbag at Saks Fifth Avenue. The dockworker, Edmond O'Donnell, 36, of New Haven, Conn., was charged with petty larceny. The detectives said they were all watching O'Donnel and saw him take the bag and stride out of the store. They grabbed him on 49th street and beat down his struggles to break free. The captors were Store Detective Florence Curtis and city Policewomen Margaret Kearney and Emily McKenna.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

This Slam Contract Can Be Made

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"How do we stay out of this slam?" asks a Phoenix correspondent. "North thinks that South overbid when he jumped from three clubs to four hearts. North says that three no-trump was quite enough, and that even a cue-bid of three spades would warn North that there was duplication of values.

"South thinks his jump was not an overbid inasmuch as he had passed on the previous round. If his hand had been any stronger, he would have bid instead of passing.

"South goes so far as to say that the slam should have been bid even though it was not made. He thinks he had a good play for the slam, but was unlucky.

"West opened the king of spades, and South won with the ace. He then took the king and queen of diamonds, noting the bad break. He continued with the rest of the trumps, ending with the ace. His next step was to lead the jack of spades and discard a low club from dummy. East won and returned a spade to South's ten, dummy discarding other low club.

"Now all would have been well if the hearts had broken normally. But they didn't break, and down South went.

Will you comment on the bidding and on the play?"

I agree with South in every detail but the way he played the hand. He was right to pass over two spades, but then he was also right to jump to four hearts in order to show that he had not opened a real "mousetrap." Moreover, if he could see his partner's hand he would want to get to six diamonds; and if that contract could not be made, it would be hard luck and not bad bidding.

However, I think that South should have made his contract. That is, a very expert South might have brought it home. It must be admitted that it is a difficult hand to play properly and that only a very fine player should be expected to make it.

Correct play is to win the first trick with the ace of spades and then cash the king and queen of diamonds, just as declarer actually did. But then, when the trumps fail to break, declarer must lead a low club from dummy. It's dollars to doughnuts that the king of clubs is with the spade overcall, especially when that overcall was on a queen-high suit.

East takes his club king and probably returns a club (as good as anything). South wins in his own hand and should now take out insurance against a bad break in hearts. Without drawing any more trumps, he should cash the king and ace of hearts. (If West could ruff, the hand would be hopeless anyway.) When the actual heart situation is thus revealed, he takes the queen of hearts and ruffs a heart with his low trump.

Now South can lay down the ace of diamonds, enter dummy with the ace of clubs, draw the last trump with the jack of diamonds, and cash the last heart. Difficult, but it works out.

By This Faith We Live

Our Association is a fellowship of human beings for human beings. We exist for the common man, for those who work, economize, and save. We are educators in habits of saving, trustees for savings, and merchandisers of homesteads in behalf of families without homes.

Our Faith

We believe in Savings and Loan Associations as cooperative institutions for safety of savings, promotion of thrift, protection of capital, and establishment of homes.

We believe in the sanctity of the home, in the sturdy patriotism centering in a home, in the right of every family to earn and own a home, and that the supreme test of an Association is the measure of its service in teaching thrift habits and making families investors in America through investment in homes.

We believe a Savings and Loan Association is a public trust, that all in its service are trustees for others, and that consent to any lesser service than public service is a violation of our trust.

We believe that careful appraisals, sound investments, conservative dividends, ample reserves, and adaptation of policy to changing social needs are fundamental to fulfillment of our stewardship as a Savings and Loan Association.

We believe that safety of savings is the first responsibility of a Savings and Loan Association, that income and dividends are secondary, and that any disbursement of funds except for safe income or the welfare of members and the community is indefensible.

We believe the Association that serves best, and best deserves success holds honor above gain; cherishes equal ethical standards in business and personal life; accepts and meets its responsibilities to its community; respects its shareholders, its employes, and itself; guides and advises its members selflessly; protects them in the profits of thrift; guards them in ownership of their homes; is fair with borrowers, patient with delinquents, but never neglectful of duty; serves all men without bias of religion or race or politics; is not moved by ambition for influence or lust for power; is not balked by censure nor bought by praise; is an Association of humanity, of and for the people of today in the United States of today.

Our Pledge

To this faith we dedicate ourselves and our Association. In this faith we serve and hope. By it we live.

The neighbor, Michael Padovani, ran upstairs to find Hornido dying in the hallway from a shot in the eye. Police said Hornido had just closed his candy store, next door to the tenement at 133 East 117th street. They were investigating the possibility of a robbery. Hornido had 11 children by his estranged wife, Rose Hornido, detectives said.

Charged With Petty Larceny

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Three detectives chased and captured a six-foot longshoreman yesterday—after, they said, he stole a $22 handbag at Saks Fifth Avenue. The dockworker, Edmond O'Donnell, 36, of New Haven, Conn., was charged with petty larceny. The detectives said they were all watching O'Donnel and saw him take the bag and stride out of the store. They grabbed him on 49th street and beat down his struggles to break free. The captors were Store Detective Florence Curtis and city Policewomen Margaret Kearney and Emily McKenna.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

This Slam Contract Can Be Made

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"How do we stay out of this slam?" asks a Phoenix correspondent. "North thinks that South overbid when he jumped from three clubs to four hearts. North says that three no-trump was quite enough, and that even a cue-bid of three spades would warn North that there was duplication of values.

"South thinks his jump was not an overbid inasmuch as he had passed on the previous round. If his hand had been any stronger, he would have bid instead of passing.

"South goes so far as to say that the slam should have been bid even though it was not made. He thinks he had a good play for the slam, but was unlucky.

"West opened the king of spades, and South won with the ace. He then took the king and queen of diamonds, noting the bad break. He continued with the rest of the trumps, ending with the ace. His next step was to lead the jack of spades and discard a low club from dummy. East won and returned a spade to South's ten, dummy discarding other low club.

"Now all would have been well if the hearts had broken normally. But they didn't break, and down South went.

Will you comment on the bidding and on the play?"

I agree with South in every detail but the way he played the hand. He was right to pass over two spades, but then he was also right to jump to four hearts in order to show that he had not opened a real "mousetrap." Moreover, if he could see his partner's hand he would want to get to six diamonds; and if that contract could not be made, it would be hard luck and not bad bidding.

However, I think that South should have made his contract. That is, a very expert South might have brought it home. It must be admitted that it is a difficult hand to play properly and that only a very fine player should be expected to make it.

Correct play is to win the first trick with the ace of spades and then cash the king and queen of diamonds, just as declarer actually did. But then, when the trumps fail to break, declarer must lead a low club from dummy. It's dollars to doughnuts that the king of clubs is with the spade overcall, especially when that overcall was on a queen-high suit.

East takes his club king and probably returns a club (as good as anything). South wins in his own hand and should now take out insurance against a bad break in hearts. Without drawing any more trumps, he should cash the king and ace of hearts. (If West could ruff, the hand would be hopeless anyway.) When the actual heart situation is thus revealed, he takes the queen of hearts and ruffs a heart with his low trump.

Now South can lay down the ace of diamonds, enter dummy with the ace of clubs, draw the last trump with the jack of diamonds, and cash the last heart. Difficult, but it works out.

By This Faith We Live

Our Association is a fellowship of human beings for human beings. We exist for the common man, for those who work, economize, and save. We are educators in habits of saving, trustees for savings, and merchandisers of homesteads in behalf of families without homes.

Our Faith

We believe in Savings and Loan Associations as cooperative institutions for safety of savings, promotion of thrift, protection of capital, and establishment of homes.

We believe in the sanctity of the home, in the sturdy patriotism centering in a home, in the right of every family to earn and own a home, and that the supreme test of an Association is the measure of its service in teaching thrift habits and making families investors in America through investment in homes.

We believe a Savings and Loan Association is a public trust, that all in its service are trustees for others, and that consent to any lesser service than public service is a violation of our trust.

We believe that careful appraisals, sound investments, conservative dividends, ample reserves, and adaptation of policy to changing social needs are fundamental to fulfillment of our stewardship as a Savings and Loan Association.

We believe that safety of savings is the first responsibility of a Savings and Loan Association, that income and dividends are secondary, and that any disbursement of funds except for safe income or the welfare of members and the community is indefensible.

We believe the Association that serves best, and best deserves success holds honor above gain; cherishes equal ethical standards in business and personal life; accepts and meets its responsibilities to its community; respects its shareholders, its employes, and itself; guides and advises its members selflessly; protects them in the profits of thrift; guards them in ownership of their homes; is fair with borrowers, patient with delinquents, but never neglectful of duty; serves all men without bias of religion or race or politics; is not moved by ambition for influence or lust for power; is not balked by censure nor bought by praise; is an Association of humanity, of and for the people of today in the United States of today.

Our Pledge

To this faith we dedicate ourselves and our Association. In this faith we serve and hope. By it we live.

Eighmey Lectures On Model Railroads

The fascination of model railroads, shared by almost every man and boy, unrolled before members of the Junior Married Women's Club Thursday evening, as Henry P. Eighmey, model railroad authority, spoke before the group at the Y. W. C. A.

"Model railroading is based on the idea of everyone having a hobby," he told his audience, "and the models are not toy trains."

Exploring his hobby's many counterparts, Mr. Eighmey described the intricacies of carpentry, electricity, machinery and staging involved. He also recommended club membership to alleviate prohibitive individual cost. Kingston's model railroad club with a membership of 30, has been active, he told the group, for 14 years. Assisted by Henry Page, Mr. Eighmey also showed a movie of the Kingston Model Railroad Club, which not only pictured models in operation, but also showed members assembling trains, scenery, and background.

During the business meeting President Mrs. William Gaffken named Mrs. Fred Port general chairman for the group's card party in February, while Mrs. Robert DeFeis will be representative to the Ulster County Safety Council.

Another highlight in the Junior Married Women's calendar will be a food sale December 2 at the Montgomery Ward store, opening at 10 a. m. Co-chairmen are Mrs. John Cline and Mrs. Clifford Avery. Items for sale will not only include various types of baked goods, and salads, but also home canned foods.

Hstesses for the evening were Mrs. Theodore Wood, Jr., Mrs. Clyde Wonderly, Jr., and Mrs. Clarence S. Rowland, Jr.

Speakers Emphasize Foreign Customs At YWCA Meeting

A Malayan and a Hebrew student from New Paltz State Teachers College emphasized the educational and religious customs of foreign lands yesterday afternoon when they spoke informally at the Y.W.C.A. during a meeting in observance of World Fellowship and Prayer Week. The week is based on the hope "we all may be one, and the brotherhood of man," Mrs. Frank Thompson, World Fellowship chairman of the Y.W.C.A. stated.

Dealing with life on the Malayan Peninsula, Miss Ede Kenneisen explained that her countrymen are a mixture of three genealogical strains; two fifths are Malayan, two fifths Chinese, with the other fifth of European or foreign extraction. Two other ethnic groups are the "hill tribes who live in the trees," and coastal area residents, known for their seafood diet.

Although under British control, there is a religious policy of non-interference, the speaker explained, the majority of the population follows the beliefs of Mohammed. Despite Protestant and Catholic missionaries, witchcraft exercises a strong influence over the life of the people, she continued, whose emotions are rooted in superstition. She also explained that polygamy, limited through stringent restrictions to the wealthier classes, still continues.

Education for the Rich

Education, Miss Kenneisen revealed, depends upon a family's wealth, with the price of elementary education so high "young children of the poorer classes are usually found working in the fields instead of attending the schools."

Today communism runs rampant through the length of the peninsula, underlined by the strenuous influence of an army of workmen originally recruited for World War II by the British Government, she continued. Men who were army officers were reluctant to return to their menial tasks, Miss Kenneisen reasoned, and easily fell prey to Communist pressure urging continual protest.

The average Malayan the speaker pictured as shiftless and lazy, his temperament tuned to his country's hot climate, while it is easier to obtain work from a Malayan on a basis of friendship, she added, than for monetary rewards.

Syrian Principal

The second speaker, Khadijeh Hadid, was a high school principal in Damascus, Syria, although until 1947 she spent her life in Haifa, Palestine

With a climate not unlike our own, she explained, agriculture and particularly fruit, have become the country's chief exports. The textile industry, which has been introduced to the nation in recent years, is guarded by high import duties, she revealed, while the manufacture of artificial silk, she asserted, is beginning to boost Syria's name to a prominent place in world commerce.

Four Religions

The Syrian government recognizes three religions, Miss Hadid continued, while a fourth, still in its infancy, and therefore not officially recognized, can be found in the country. Moslems, Jews, Protestants, Catholics and Roman Orthodox worship in their own way unmolested. Bahaien, which originated in Persia, based on the Bahaien book, allegedly taken from the best sections of the Koran and Old and New Testaments is, she insisted, spreading quickly throughout the world. Lacking any historical background it is, Miss Hadid explained, supposedly geared to modern living and thinking.

Syrian Education

Reporting on Syria's educational system, the speaker told how it is based on six years of elementary training, four years of intermediate education, two years of secondary schooling, and four years of schooling. Modern Syria, Miss Hadid continued, boasts two flourishing universities; the American University and the National University. Comparing Syrian methods with our own, she revealed that the work of an entire course depends wholly upon the final examination. But, although education is not compulsory, she stated, the rate of literacy is high.

During the program Mrs. Gustav Talleur sang two solos, while the Rev. J. Dean Dykstra offered the opening prayer and Rabbi Herbert Bloom pronounced the benediction.

Albany Network Offers Salute To Footlighters

Kingston Footlighters rose with the sun Friday to reach Albany at 8 a. m. in time for the Standard Furniture program over channels WROW, Albany, and WKNY, Kingston, where they became the first organization to be saluted over the "Morning Watch." Footlighters agreed that the eye-opening coffee and doughnuts, wake-up songs, and ingenious quiz games made the trip as enjoyable as it was worthwhile Meanwhile emcee Kris Martin was on hand, not only to greet the members on hand, but to explain the general aims, history, and current projects the Footlighters have underfoot.

At the same time the group announced that they have become actively associated with the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, where their membership was voted on and approved this week.

Among those attending the Albany broadcast were: Ernest Grafe of Bloomington, president; George Walsh of Kingston, author of "In the Land of Rip Van Winkle," theme song of the Catskill Mountains, and a member of "The Rogues" currently appearing at the Embassy; Frank Spies of New Paltz of "The Rogues; Larry Mitchell of Kingston, also a "Rogues Trio" member; John Mayo of Woodstock, vice president; Mrs. Ernest Grafe of Bloomington; and George Ruffing, Betty Williams, John Carro, Marion Wooll, Mrs. Edward Doyle, Wanda Lewis, and Mrs. Sylvia Williams, all of Kingston.

Children Sponsor Building Fund Fair

Probably the most unique contribution to date to find its way into the coffers of the Kingston Hospital Building Fund resulted from a conference a pair of nine year old twins and two of their friends had one day. They wanted to help, and the best way to do it seemed to be to hold a fair.

Thomas and Virginia Lee McCormack, assisted by Penny Johnson and George Chilson went to work with a lot of energy and ingenuity, and not much else. They painted posters which were duly hung in schools No. 7 and 8. Armed with a clothes basket they trooped their neighborhood asking for contributions; anything they could sell for the hospital.

They turned their grandmother's garden at 42 Josephine avenue into a childhood version of the Great White Way. Trees were strung with balloons, while booths sprang up from old orange crates, nail kegs and benches.

They sold everything, from books and nicknacks, to toys and games they had repaired themselves. And, of course, it wouldn't have been a fair without ice cream, soda pop, and cider. In fact one young chef, George Chilson, baked four dozen cookies all himself the morning of the fair.

When the solicitor came last Saturday there was a carefully counted total of $7.91 waiting at the McCormack home.

Dean Cameron Gives Alumnae Lecture On Chinese Problem

Dean Meribeth Cameron, academic administrator of Mount Holyoke College, who has studied and taught Asiatic history for 20 years, addressed members of the Hudson Valley Mount Holyoke Club Saturday when they met at the Nelson House, Poughkeepsie.

Miss Cameron, speaking on "The Far East," traced China's revolutionary movement which culminated in the overthrow of the Imperial government. She also differentiated between Communist ambitions and Sun Yat Sen's aims for China. Only two points in communism, she felt, appeal to the Chinese people; its nationalistic stress, coupled with its program of returning land to the peasants. Looking into the future, she expressed the belief that hope for China lay in the independent disposition of its people, and the strong possibility that they will resent regimentation, high taxes, and Russian domination.

During the question period that followed Miss Cameron answered questions on both the Far East, and Mount Holyoke College.

Uster county residents attending the luncheon were Mrs. Thomas L. Partlan of this city, Mrs. E. H. Faust of Highland, Mrs. Edgar M. Clarke, Jr., of Milton, and Mrs. Howard Van Winkle of Stone Ridge.

Eighmey Lectures On Model Railroads

The fascination of model railroads, shared by almost every man and boy, unrolled before members of the Junior Married Women's Club Thursday evening, as Henry P. Eighmey, model railroad authority, spoke before the group at the Y. W. C. A.

"Model railroading is based on the idea of everyone having a hobby," he told his audience, "and the models are not toy trains."

Exploring his hobby's many counterparts, Mr. Eighmey described the intricacies of carpentry, electricity, machinery and staging involved. He also recommended club membership to alleviate prohibitive individual cost. Kingston's model railroad club with a membership of 30, has been active, he told the group, for 14 years. Assisted by Henry Page, Mr. Eighmey also showed a movie of the Kingston Model Railroad Club, which not only pictured models in operation, but also showed members assembling trains, scenery, and background.

During the business meeting President Mrs. William Gaffken named Mrs. Fred Port general chairman for the group's card party in February, while Mrs. Robert DeFeis will be representative to the Ulster County Safety Council.

Another highlight in the Junior Married Women's calendar will be a food sale December 2 at the Montgomery Ward store, opening at 10 a. m. Co-chairmen are Mrs. John Cline and Mrs. Clifford Avery. Items for sale will not only include various types of baked goods, and salads, but also home canned foods.

Hstesses for the evening were Mrs. Theodore Wood, Jr., Mrs. Clyde Wonderly, Jr., and Mrs. Clarence S. Rowland, Jr.

Personal Notes

Miss Grace Elliott of Connelly flew from LaGuardia Field November 18 for Los Angeles and San Francisco where she will spend a few days vacation.

Jacquelyn A. Steuding, a junior at New Paltz State Teachers College, has been accepted in Mu Sigma Epsilon, honorary college society for recognition of superior ability and performance in music. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Steuding, 93 Lucas avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rose, 42 Downs street, announce the birth of a son, George Albert, born November 14 at Kingston Hospital.

Speakers Emphasize Foreign Customs At YWCA Meeting

A Malayan and a Hebrew student from New Paltz State Teachers College emphasized the educational and religious customs of foreign lands yesterday afternoon when they spoke informally at the Y.W.C.A. during a meeting in observance of World Fellowship and Prayer Week. The week is based on the hope "we all may be one, and the brotherhood of man," Mrs. Frank Thompson, World Fellowship chairman of the Y.W.C.A. stated.

Dealing with life on the Malayan Peninsula, Miss Ede Kenneisen explained that her countrymen are a mixture of three genealogical strains; two fifths are Malayan, two fifths Chinese, with the other fifth of European or foreign extraction. Two other ethnic groups are the "hill tribes who live in the trees," and coastal area residents, known for their seafood diet.

Although under British control, there is a religious policy of non-interference, the speaker explained, the majority of the population follows the beliefs of Mohammed. Despite Protestant and Catholic missionaries, witchcraft exercises a strong influence over the life of the people, she continued, whose emotions are rooted in superstition. She also explained that polygamy, limited through stringent restrictions to the wealthier classes, still continues.

Education for the Rich

Education, Miss Kenneisen revealed, depends upon a family's wealth, with the price of elementary education so high "young children of the poorer classes are usually found working in the fields instead of attending the schools."

Today communism runs rampant through the length of the peninsula, underlined by the strenuous influence of an army of workmen originally recruited for World War II by the British Government, she continued. Men who were army officers were reluctant to return to their menial tasks, Miss Kenneisen reasoned, and easily fell prey to Communist pressure urging continual protest.

The average Malayan the speaker pictured as shiftless and lazy, his temperament tuned to his country's hot climate, while it is easier to obtain work from a Malayan on a basis of friendship, she added, than for monetary rewards.

Syrian Principal

The second speaker, Khadijeh Hadid, was a high school principal in Damascus, Syria, although until 1947 she spent her life in Haifa, Palestine

With a climate not unlike our own, she explained, agriculture and particularly fruit, have become the country's chief exports. The textile industry, which has been introduced to the nation in recent years, is guarded by high import duties, she revealed, while the manufacture of artificial silk, she asserted, is beginning to boost Syria's name to a prominent place in world commerce.

Four Religions

The Syrian government recognizes three religions, Miss Hadid continued, while a fourth, still in its infancy, and therefore not officially recognized, can be found in the country. Moslems, Jews, Protestants, Catholics and Roman Orthodox worship in their own way unmolested. Bahaien, which originated in Persia, based on the Bahaien book, allegedly taken from the best sections of the Koran and Old and New Testaments is, she insisted, spreading quickly throughout the world. Lacking any historical background it is, Miss Hadid explained, supposedly geared to modern living and thinking.

Syrian Education

Reporting on Syria's educational system, the speaker told how it is based on six years of elementary training, four years of intermediate education, two years of secondary schooling, and four years of schooling. Modern Syria, Miss Hadid continued, boasts two flourishing universities; the American University and the National University. Comparing Syrian methods with our own, she revealed that the work of an entire course depends wholly upon the final examination. But, although education is not compulsory, she stated, the rate of literacy is high.

During the program Mrs. Gustav Talleur sang two solos, while the Rev. J. Dean Dykstra offered the opening prayer and Rabbi Herbert Bloom pronounced the benediction.

Albany Network Offers Salute To Footlighters

Kingston Footlighters rose with the sun Friday to reach Albany at 8 a. m. in time for the Standard Furniture program over channels WROW, Albany, and WKNY, Kingston, where they became the first organization to be saluted over the "Morning Watch." Footlighters agreed that the eye-opening coffee and doughnuts, wake-up songs, and ingenious quiz games made the trip as enjoyable as it was worthwhile Meanwhile emcee Kris Martin was on hand, not only to greet the members on hand, but to explain the general aims, history, and current projects the Footlighter have underfoot.

At the same time the group announced that they have become actively associated with the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, where their membership was voted on and approved this week.

Among those attending the Albany broadcast were: Ernest Grafe of Bloomington, president; George Walsh of Kingston, author of "In the Land of Rip Van Winkle," theme song of the Catskill Mountains, and a member of "The Rogues" currently appearing at the Embassy; Frank Spies of New Paltz of "The Rogues; Larry Mitchell of Kingston, also a "Rogues Trio" member; John Mayo of Woodstock, vice president; Mrs. Ernest Grafe of Bloomington; and George Ruffing, Betty Williams, John Carro, Marion Wooll, Mrs. Edward Doyle, Wanda Lewis, and Mrs. Sylvia Williams, all of Kingston.

Children Sponsor Building Fund Fair

Probably the most unique contribution to date to find its way into the coffers of the Kingston Hospital Building Fund resulted from a conference a pair of nine year old twins and two of their friends had one day. They wanted to help, and the best way to do it seemed to be to hold a fair.

Thomas and Virginia Lee McCormack, assisted by Penny Johnson and George Chilson went to work with a lot of energy and ingenuity, and not much else. They painted posters which were duly hung in schools No. 7 and 8. Armed with a clothes basket they trooped their neighborhood asking for contributions; anything they could sell for the hospital.

They turned their grandmother's garden at 42 Josephine avenue into a childhood version of the Great White Way. Trees were strung with balloons, while booths sprang up from old orange crates, nail kegs and benches.

They sold everything, from books and nicknacks, to toys and games they had repaired themselves. And, of course, it wouldn't have been a fair without ice cream, soda pop, and cider. In fact one young chef, George Chilson, baked four dozen cookies all himself the morning of the fair.

When the solicitor came last Saturday there was a carefully counted total of $7.91 waiting at the McCormack home.

Dean Cameron Gives Alumnae Lecture On Chinese Problem

Dean Meribeth Cameron, academic administrator of Mount Holyoke College, who has studied and taught Asiatic history for 20 years, addressed members of the Hudson Valley Mount Holyoke Club Saturday when they met at the Nelson House, Poughkeepsie.

Miss Cameron, speaking on "The Far East," traced China's revolutionary movement which culminated in the overthrow of the Imperial government. She also differentiated between Communist ambitions and Sun Yat Sen's aims for China. Only two points in communism, she felt, appeal to the Chinese people; its nationalistic stress, coupled with its program of returning land to the peasants. Looking into the future, she expressed the belief that hope for China lay in the independent disposition of its people, and the strong possibility that they will resent regimentation, high taxes, and Russian domination.

During the question period that followed Miss Cameron answered questions on both the Far East, and Mount Holyoke College.

Uster county residents attending the luncheon were Mrs. Thomas L. Partlan of this city, Mrs. E. H. Faust of Highland, Mrs. Edgar M. Clarke, Jr., of Milton, and Mrs. Howard Van Winkle of Stone Ridge.

Judgment Upheld In Apple Law Suit

By a decision handed down on November 15, the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, sitting in Albany, affirmed a judgment rendered after a trial before Justice Donald S. Taylor and a jury at the October 1949 trial term here.

The case involved the sale of the 1946 crop of apples raised by the defendant, Anthony Andola of Milton, to the plaintiff, Michael Lembo, residing at Modena. By their agreement made on August 23, 1946, Andola agreed to sell and Lembo to purchase all of Andola's crop of different varieties of apples at specified prices. The contract provided, however, that the apples should be free from decay and wormholes and should not include any cider apples. After being harvested, the apples were delivered by Andola to Lembo's account at the Clintondale cold storage cooler and Andola was paid upon turning over the warehouse receipts. Upon proceeding to remove some of the apples from the cooler for resale some months later, however, Lembo discovered that they were to a large extent decayed and otherwise unfit for use. He thereupon retained Abraham Streifer as his attorney and commenced legal action for breach of warranty. The trial was commenced on October 19, 1949 and consumed four days. It resulted in a verdict of the jury in favor of the plaintiff in the sum of $3,830.75. Following the trial, the defendant moved before Justice Taylor for a new trial upon the ground of newly discovered evidence. Failing in such motion, he appealed to the Appellate Division at Albany. The appeal was argued before that court at the September term. In its decision, just handed down, that court stated:

"The action was for a breach of warranty in the sale and delivery of apples. Defendant expressly warranted the apples to be free from decay and worm holes, and not cider apples.

"The condition of the disputed apples was an issue of fact which the jury resolved in favor of the plaintiff from conflicting testimony. There was evidence that all the disputed apples were either of a cider grade or a total waste.

"No reversible error was committed in the reception of inspection certificates from the U. S. Department of Agriculture. If there was error at all, it was highly technical in nature, not embraced within the objections taken, and did not affect any substantial right of the defendant. Whether plaintiff gave notice of the breach of warranty within a reasonable time was, under the circumstances disclosed, properly submitted to the jury as an issue of fact.

"The motion for a new trial upon newly discovered evidence was denied upon the ground that defendant had not shown due diligence in attempting to procure the same before trial. To which may be added, we think, the further ground that it is highly problematical whether the new evidence, consisting of storage reports, would have changed the result.

"Judgment and orders affirmed with costs of the action and disbursements."

Presiding Justice Foster and Justices Brewster, Bergan and Coon concurred in such decision. Justice Deyo dissented.

The plaintiff was represented at the trial and upon the appeal by Abraham Streifer as his attorney, and the defendant was represented by John F. Wadlin and Harry H. Flemming.

Gale Kills Two

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—A southwesterly gale swung up the Atlantic beaches from Cape Hatteras to Long Island last night, kicking up high seas, tearing down power lines and causing the death of at least two men.

Judgment Upheld In Apple Law Suit

By a decision handed down on November 15, the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, sitting in Albany, affirmed a judgment rendered after a trial before Justice Donald S. Taylor and a jury at the October 1949 trial term here.

The case involved the sale of the 1946 crop of apples raised by the defendant, Anthony Andola of Milton, to the plaintiff, Michael Lembo, residing at Modena. By their agreement made on August 23, 1946, Andola agreed to sell and Lembo to purchase all of Andola's crop of different varieties of apples at specified prices. The contract provided, however, that the apples should be free from decay and wormholes and should not include any cider apples. After being harvested, the apples were delivered by Andola to Lembo's account at the Clintondale cold storage cooler and Andola was paid upon turning over the warehouse receipts. Upon proceeding to remove some of the apples from the cooler for resale some months later, however, Lembo discovered that they were to a large extent decayed and otherwise unfit for use. He thereupon retained Abraham Streifer as his attorney and commenced legal action for breach of warranty. The trial was commenced on October 19, 1949 and consumed four days. It resulted in a verdict of the jury in favor of the plaintiff in the sum of $3,830.75. Following the trial, the defendant moved before Justice Taylor for a new trial upon the ground of newly discovered evidence. Failing in such motion, he appealed to the Appellate Division at Albany. The appeal was argued before that court at the September term. In its decision, just handed down, that court stated:

"The action was for a breach of warranty in the sale and delivery of apples. Defendant expressly warranted the apples to be free from decay and worm holes, and not cider apples.

"The condition of the disputed apples was an issue of fact which the jury resolved in favor of the plaintiff from conflicting testimony. There was evidence that all the disputed apples were either of a cider grade or a total waste.

"No reversible error was committed in the reception of inspection certificates from the U. S. Department of Agriculture. If there was error at all, it was highly technical in nature, not embraced within the objections taken, and did not affect any substantial right of the defendant. Whether plaintiff gave notice of the breach of warranty within a reasonable time was, under the circumstances disclosed, properly submitted to the jury as an issue of fact.

"The motion for a new trial upon newly discovered evidence was denied upon the ground that defendant had not shown due diligence in attempting to procure the same before trial. To which may be added, we think, the further ground that it is highly problematical whether the new evidence, consisting of storage reports, would have changed the result.

"Judgment and orders affirmed with costs of the action and disbursements."

Presiding Justice Foster and Justices Brewster, Bergan and Coon concurred in such decision. Justice Deyo dissented.

The plaintiff was represented at the trial and upon the appeal by Abraham Streifer as his attorney, and the defendant was represented by John F. Wadlin and Harry H. Flemming.

Fourteen K. H. S. Varsity Grid Players in Final Game Against N. F. A.

Only One Back Slated to Return For '51 Season

Hinkley, Tiano, Fiore Only Line Returnees

Kingston High School varsity football players will bid farewell to the alma mater almost en masse, following the traditional Thanksgiving Day windup against Newburgh Free Academy on Thursday in the Hill City.

Graduation will wipe out six of Coach Bill Burke's seven "first string" backfield men. Only Al Carpino is due to return. The absentees in 1951 will be John Kozlowski, quarterback; Carl Stroble, fullback, and halfbacks, Harold Acker, Lee Jackson, Frank Modica and Jim Linnartz.

Coach Burke hinted this morning that Jackson would be in the starting lineup against the Goldbacks.

The line, one of the best in K.H.S. grid history, will be equally hard hit next June. Charlie Tiano and Frank Fiore, a substitute end, will return, along with "Red" Hinkley at center.

The line stalwarts scheduled to leave include Big Joe Berryann, Jay Rider, Adam Fiore, Bob Engle, George McDonough, Henville and the Hansen brothers—Walt and Will.

In Top Shape

The Maroon mentor reported the K.H.S. squad at top physical and mental shape for the impending showdown with the Goldbacks. The hint that Lee Jackson might draw a starting assignment in the backfield indicates the Maroon will play offensive football.

"We're going to play offensive football against the Goldbacks," Burke said. "We're not going to try to hold them. We think we can match them in scoring power and they can't afford to swing too heavily to running or passing. They'll have to show a balance between the two."

Interest in the game is at fever pitch at both schools and N.F.A. officials are making accommodations for one of the largest crowds in recent years.

Baltimore—Harry Wills, 204, South Bend, Ind., outpointed Freddie Beshore, 194½, Harrisbug, Pa. (10).

First Hole-in-One For Senator Wicks

Sen. Arthur H. Wicks, an 18-handicap golfer at Twaalfskill Golf Club, scored the first hole-in-one of his career yesterday in Miami Beach, Fla.

The Senator achieved the "ace" on a 174-yard hole in the presence of his wife.

The report did not identify the type of club Sen. Wicks used to make the shot.

Senator and Mrs. Wicks are enjoying a post-election vacation in Miami Beach.

Turnesa to Captain Walker Cup Golfers

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Willie Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y., will captain the United States Walker Cup team when it meets the Britis golfers in England next year.

Turnesa, winner of the U. S. Amateur championship in 1938 and 1948, played on the U. S. Walker Cup team in 1947. While in England that year he won the British Amateur.

The U. S. Golf Association said the U. S. team for the match, at the Birkdale Golf Club, Southport, England, May 11-12, would be announced at the annual meeting in New York, Jan. 27.

The Iron Man

Kings Point, N. Y., Nov. 21 (AP)—This is the era of the two platoons in college football but not for Jerry Fitzpatrick, end for the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy team. Fitzpatrick, who also saw some service as a defensive halfback, played 444 minutes of a possible 480 in the Mariners' eight game schedule. He played the full 60 minutes in three games, and 59 in a fourth.

Boston — Irish Bob Murphy, 177½, San Diego, knocked out Fred McManus, 192½, Jersey City (4).

Shea Slows Up But Still Wins

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—If Dick Shea of Army keeps going at his present rate, no one is going to show up for next year's IC4-A cross-country championship.

Shea now has won eight harrier races in a row, including yesterday's 42nd renewal of the IC4-A grind over Van Cortlandt Park's treacherous five-mile course. It was the second straight year he won it.

Some of his victims were heartened by the fact that Dick, a third classman and former G.I., failed to break 25 minutes for the run and further, did not do as well as last year. This season he already has bettered the course mark twice.

But...

Yesterday's race was run under wretched conditions. At times he had to slog through mud and fight a blinding rain.

He ran smack into winds of near gale force heading into the stretch.

And, finally, he took a wrong turn at the end and had to retrace some of his stepps.

With it all, his clocking was 25:21.4, not quite seven seconds slower than he toured the route last year. He beat 25 minutes winning the Heptagonals last week over a slightly shorter course.

Maryland-Texas A. & M. For President's Cup

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—American Legion sponsors of the game were reported ready today to name Maryland and the Texas Aggies as opponents in the President's Cup football contest to be played at College Park, Md., Dec. 9.

Game officials would not confirm that those two teams had been selected, but said an announcement of the opponents probably could be expected in the afternoon. Unofficially, all signs pointed to the Aggies and Terrapins as contestants in the event to be staged for benefit of the Legion welfare fund.

Washington—Marshall Clayton, 134, Washington, outpointed Luis Ramos, 130, New York (10).

Hamey Returns To Yankees

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Roy Hamey, one of baseball's top executives, is going back to work for his first love, New York Yankees, the World Champions.

Hamey, general manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates the past four years, will sever connections with the Pirates on Dec. 1, and become assistant general manager for the Yanks.

The 48-year-old executive decided to break off with the Pirates although his reported $40,000 a year contract doesn't expire until 1952.

Hamey's status with the Pirates has been in doubt since Branch Rickey recently was signed as vice-president and general manager of the Bucs.

Louis Okayed

Chicago, Nov. 21 (AP)—Joe Louis has been pronounced "in excellent condition" for the start of his comeback in a 10-round bout with Cesar Brion at Chicago Stadium on November 29. Louis and Brion both passed physical tests yesterday before the Illinois Athletic Commission.

Oklahoma Rated First In Weekly Grid Poll

Army and Kentucky In Runnerup Spots

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—The University of Oklahoma, knocking on the front door in the weekly Associated Press football poll all season, finally got into the living room today as the nation's No. 1 team.

Now the question is: Can the rampaging Sooners of Coach Bud Wilkinson retain that lofty perch until the end of this unpredictable season, and become the first member of the Big Seven conference to cop this mythical football crown? Oklahoma was voted the No. 2 team last year when Notre Dame ended the season as the No. 1 club.

Unlike recent years, when a mighty Notre Dame, Michigan or Army team led the poll week after week through the long fall, Oklahoma is the fifth outfit to hold the No. 1 spot this season.

Ohio State Tumbles

Oklahoma, which blasted Missouri last week 41-7, to run its unbeaten string to 29 straight, replaced Ohio State. The Buckeyes, who lost to Illinois, fell from first to eighth place.

In seven previous polls this fall, Oklahoma was voted third four times as the nation's sportswriters and sportscasters put the finger on other teams. The Sooners were rated No. 2 twice, and No. 5 in the first poll Oct. 2.

Wilkinson was almost speechless when advised his team had been voted No. 1 with a total of 2,964 points. This was 526 better than Army.

Oklahoma, voted No. 1 with 2,964 points, polled 173 first place votes, compared with 36 for Army, and 55 for Kentucky, which moved into third for the first time this year. Army, winner over Stanford in the rain and mud, 7-0, received 2,438 points and Kentucky, which walloped helpless North Dakota, 83-0, got 2,346. Kentucky was fifth a week ago.

California Fourth

California, with 20 first place votes, held its fourth place rating for the second week in a row with 2,189 points. The Golden Bears also overcame San Francisco in the mud, 13-7.

Texas moved from sixth to fifth, as the Longhorns trimmed Texas Christian, 21-7, while Illinois, eighth a week ago, advanced to sixth by defeating Ohio State, 14-7. The Texas victory assured a Cotton Bowl berth as well as the Southwest Conference title.

Princeton hung on to seventh place, lashing Yale, 47-12. In the ninth and tenth places are Tennessee and Michigan State, which held the same ranking last week.

Army rests now until the Navy game, Dec. 2. Kentucky gets the acid test against Tennessee. California tackles Stanford, Illinois plays Northwestern, Princeton plays Dartmouth, Ohio State meets Michigan. These games are Saturday. Texas plays Texas A. & M. Nov. 30, and L.S.U. Dec. 9. Tennessee has another game after Kentucky, meeting Vanderbilt Dec. 2. Michigan State's schedule is complete.

Fourteen K. H. S. Varsity Grid Players in Final Game Against N. F. A.

Only One Back Slated to Return For '51 Season

Hinkley, Tiano, Fiore Only Line Returnees

Kingston High School varsity football players will bid farewell to the alma mater almost en masse, following the traditional Thanksgiving Day windup against Newburgh Free Academy on Thursday in the Hill City.

Graduation will wipe out six of Coach Bill Burke's seven "first string" backfield men. Only Al Carpino is due to return. The absentees in 1951 will be John Kozlowski, quarterback; Carl Stroble, fullback, and halfbacks, Harold Acker, Lee Jackson, Frank Modica and Jim Linnartz.

Coach Burke hinted this morning that Jackson would be in the starting lineup against the Goldbacks.

The line, one of the best in K.H.S. grid history, will be equally hard hit next June. Charlie Tiano and Frank Fiore, a substitute end, will return, along with "Red" Hinkley at center.

The line stalwarts scheduled to leave include Big Joe Berryann, Jay Rider, Adam Fiore, Bob Engle, George McDonough, Henville and the Hansen brothers—Walt and Will.

In Top Shape

The Maroon mentor reported the K.H.S. squad at top physical and mental shape for the impending showdown with the Goldbacks. The hint that Lee Jackson might draw a starting assignment in the backfield indicates the Maroon will play offensive football.

"We're going to play offensive football against the Goldbacks," Burke said. "We're not going to try to hold them. We think we can match them in scoring power and they can't afford to swing too heavily to running or passing. They'll have to show a balance between the two."

Interest in the game is at fever pitch at both schools and N.F.A. officials are making accommodations for one of the largest crowds in recent years.

Baltimore—Harry Wills, 204, South Bend, Ind., outpointed Freddie Beshore, 194½, Harrisbug, Pa. (10).

First Hole-in-One For Senator Wicks

Sen. Arthur H. Wicks, an 18-handicap golfer at Twaalfskill Golf Club, scored the first hole-in-one of his career yesterday in Miami Beach, Fla.

The Senator achieved the "ace" on a 174-yard hole in the presence of his wife.

The report did not identify the type of club Sen. Wicks used to make the shot.

Senator and Mrs. Wicks are enjoying a post-election vacation in Miami Beach.

Turnesa to Captain Walker Cup Golfers

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Willie Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y., will captain the United States Walker Cup team when it meets the Britis golfers in England next year.

Turnesa, winner of the U. S. Amateur championship in 1938 and 1948, played on the U. S. Walker Cup team in 1947. While in England that year he won the British Amateur.

The U. S. Golf Association said the U. S. team for the match, at the Birkdale Golf Club, Southport, England, May 11-12, would be announced at the annual meeting in New York, Jan. 27.

The Iron Man

Kings Point, N. Y., Nov. 21 (AP)—This is the era of the two platoons in college football but not for Jerry Fitzpatrick, end for the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy team. Fitzpatrick, who also saw some service as a defensive halfback, played 444 minutes of a possible 480 in the Mariners' eight game schedule. He played the full 60 minutes in three games, and 59 in a fourth.

Boston — Irish Bob Murphy, 177½, San Diego, knocked out Fred McManus, 192½, Jersey City (4).

Shea Slows Up But Still Wins

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—If Dick Shea of Army keeps going at his present rate, no one is going to show up for next year's IC4-A cross-country championship.

Shea now has won eight harrier races in a row, including yesterday's 42nd renewal of the IC4-A grind over Van Cortlandt Park's treacherous five-mile course. It was the second straight year he won it.

Some of his victims were heartened by the fact that Dick, a third classman and former G.I., failed to break 25 minutes for the run and further, did not do as well as last year. This season he already has bettered the course marl twice.

But...

Yesterday's race was run under wretched conditions. At times he had to slog through mud and fight a blinding rain.

He ran smack into winds of near gale force heading into the stretch.

And, finally, he took a wrong turn at the end and had to retrace some of his stepps.

With it all, his clocking was 25:21.4, not quite seven seconds slower than he toured the route last year. He beat 25 minutes winning the Heptagonals last week over a slightly shorter course.

Maryland-Texas A. & M. For President's Cup

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—American Legion sponsors of the game were reported ready today to name Maryland and the Texas Aggies as opponents in the President's Cup football contest to be played at College Park, Md., Dec. 9.

Game officials would not confirm that those two teams had been selected, but said an announcement of the opponents probably could be expected in the afternoon. Unofficially, all signs pointed to the Aggies and Terrapins as contestants in the event to be staged for benefit of the Legion welfare fund.

Washington—Marshall Clayton, 134, Washington, outpointed Luis Ramos, 130, New York (10).

Oklahoma Rated First In Weekly Grid Poll

Army and Kentucky In Runnerup Spots

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—The University of Oklahoma, knocking on the front door in the weekly Associated Press football poll all season, finally got into the living room today as the nation's No. 1 team.

Now the question is: Can the rampaging Sooners of Coach Bud Wilkinson retain that lofty perch until the end of this unpredictable season, and become the first member of the Big Seven conference to cop this mythical football crown? Oklahoma was voted the No. 2 team last year when Notre Dame ended the season as the No. 1 club.

Unlike recent years, when a mighty Notre Dame, Michigan or Army team led the poll week after week through the long fall, Oklahoma is the fifth outfit to hold the No. 1 spot this season.

Ohio State Tumbles

Oklahoma, which blasted Missouri last week 41-7, to run its unbeaten string to 29 straight, replaced Ohio State. The Buckeyes, who lost to Illinois, fell from first to eighth place.

In seven previous polls this fall, Oklahoma was voted third four times as the nation's sportswriters and sportscasters put the finger on other teams. The Sooners were rated No. 2 twice, and No. 5 in the first poll Oct. 2.

Wilkinson was almost speechless when advised his team had been voted No. 1 with a total of 2,964 points. This was 526 better than Army.

Oklahoma, voted No. 1 with 2,964 points, polled 173 first place votes, compared with 36 for Army, and 55 for Kentucky, which moved into third for the first time this year. Army, winner over Stanford in the rain and mud, 7-0, received 2,438 points and Kentucky, which walloped helpless North Dakota, 83-0, got 2,346. Kentucky was fifth a week ago.

California Fourth

California, with 20 first place votes, held its fourth place rating for the second week in a row with 2,188 points. The Golden Bears also overcame San Francisco in the mud, 13-7.

Texas moved from sixth to fifth, as the Longhorns trimmed Texas Christian, 21-7, while Illinois, eighth a week ago, advanced to sixth by defeating Ohio State, 14-7. The Texas victory assured a Cotton Bowl berth as well as the Southwest Conference title.

Princeton hung on to seventh place, lashing Yale, 47-12. In the ninth and tenth places are Tennessee and Michigan State, which held the same ranking last week.

Army rests now until the Navy game, Dec. 2. Kentucky gets the acid test against Tennessee, California tackles Stanford, Illinois plays Northwestern, Princeton plays Dartmouth, Ohio State meets Michigan. These games are Saturday. Texas plays Texas A. & M. Nov. 30, and L.S.U. Dec. 9. Tennessee has another game after Kentucky, meeting Vanderbilt Dec. 2. Michigan State's schedule is complete.

Hamey Returns To Yankees

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Roy Hamey, one of baseball's top executives, is going back to work for his first love, New York Yankees, the World Champions.

Hamey, general manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates the past four years, will sever connections with the Pirates on Dec. 1, and become assistant general manager for the Yanks.

The 48-year-old executive decided to break off with the Pirates although his reported $40,000 a year contract doesn't expire until 1952.

Hamey's status with the Pirates has been in doubt since Branch Rickey recently was signed as vice-president and general manager of the Bucs.

Louis Okayed

Chicago, Nov. 21 (AP)—Joe Louis has been pronounced "in excellent condition" for the start of his comeback in a 10-round bout with Cesar Brion at Chicago Stadium on November 29. Louis and Brion both passed physical tests yesterday before the Illinois Athletic Commission.

Ferraro Rolls 277 and 733 for New Records in City Bowling League

Nerone Converts The '7-10' Split

Vic Nerone, of East Kingston, who rolls for the Crystal Gardens team in the City Minor League, achieved that rarest of all split conversions in bowling, when he cleaned off the 7-10 last night at the Bowlodrome.

Nerone's conversion was only the fourth in local bowling history. He will receive a special shoulder patch from the American Bowling Congress for his feat.

You may kid Johnny Ferraro about his incessant tinkering with new grips, screwy grips, his experiments with bowling ball pitches and unorthodox spans, but in spite of these idiosyncrasies he always adds up to the best bowler in the Hudson valley.

Last night, the veteran ace was back home at the Central Recs and delighted his Old Capital Motors teammates with a rousing 733 triple for a new seasonal record in the city's oldest tenpin wheel.

Pounds 277 Solo

"The Ace," as he is familiarly known to alley denizens, pounded the uprights for successive counts of 277, 226 and 230. The 277 solo is also a new high for the season.

Chances are that the 733 was the 40th in Ferraro's career, which just about gives him more of those coveted series than all the other bowlers in the city put together.

Ferraro's tremendous blast, erasing his own previous record of 714, came only a couple of hours after he had stressed "mental conditioning" in a radio interview. "The Ace" pointed out that in a majority of cases, a bowler's failure to hit certain alleys after repeated attempts must be attributed to lack of "mental conditioning."

Ferraro knows the Central Rec lanes like you know the palms of your hand, so his 733 came as no surprise to the City League sharpies gathered at "Red" Sangi's midtown dreamland of high scoring. But it added up to a pretty solid night's work in any league.

Colonials Upset

Of tremendous interest, however, was the stunning upset the league-leading Colonials suffered at the hands of Jake's Grill. The "champs" were knocked off three times running.

The Jakes accomplished the feat without shooting a "1000" game or without a single individual series of "600." George "Sec" Robinson was their top man with 590.

Bill Kuehn rolled up another big series in the anchor slot opposite Ferraro, posting 671 on scores of 203, 225, 243. Kuehn had a 704 in the Bolowdrome Major last Thursday.

Tommy "Shiek" Carlino, a distant relative of Rudolph Valentino, grabbed the No. 3 spot with 205-242-210-657. Tommy Amato shot 194-213-210-617.

Other top scores included Lou Guadagnola's 201-203-594; George Robinson 204-590; Charlie Manfro 213-590; Al Kieffer 212-205-585; and Phil Corrado 218-587.

Best team games were the Embassy's 1026 and Old Capital's 1005. The latter's 2938 was high team series.

Griffith Joins Boudreau Sweeps

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—Clark Griffith set a goal for himself on his 81st birthday yesterday—the acquisition of Lou Boudreau to play shortstop for the Washington Senators.

Griffith said at a big birthday party that he had made an offer last week to Boudreau, the Cleveland Indians' former manager and star shortstop. He indicated he hopes to hear something by next Monday.

Boudreau, a free agent since his release by the Indians, said at his home in Harvey, Ill., that there was "nothing new on the subject—I won't make a decision until later on."

He reportedly has had offers from the New York Yankees and the Boston Red Sox. And there has been talk he might wind up managing the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Schrowang's 618 Paces Elston Bowling Win

Joe Schrowang's 618 series paced Elston Sports to a 93-pin decision over Catskill in a special bowling match in Kingston over the week-end. Schrowang pounded the maples for 226, 170, 222 as the Elstons hit 2766 against 2673 for the visitors.

Bill Guldenstern led the losers with 202-205-178-605.

Runnerup was F. Pavlick with 200-577, while Clausi added 154 and 173 to his 247 for 574. Also of not were Joe Fautz's 207-558; Len Freer 200-558; Milly Berardi 201-553; Pete Nagy 205-547; F. The league produced a bumper crop of 31 series of "500" or better.

A "600" on the nose—via 191-215-194 gave Harry Wilber weekly honors in the Independent circuit, with R. Halbert posting 209-564 for the runnerup spot.

Among the better of the 19 "500" triples were Leo Everett's 203-555; Don Vogel 553; Orv Van Alstyne 224-554; Milt Cole Sr. 543; Eddie Marks 226-542; Charlie Grunenwald 538; Jim Daniels 537; Harry Pierce 205-535; Ed Trombley 533; Roland Post 530; Knute Beichert 526; Ward DuBois 523 and Gene Vogel 522.

Joe Singer sandwiched a 175 with solos of 245 and 220 to set the pace in the Good Neighbor League. This was a new seasonal record for the Monday night circuit.

Mitzie Arlensky was runnerup with 200-575; Danny Basch shot 218-563; Jack Blinder 226-558; Sheldon Levy 562; B. Maroon 203-550; G. Goldfarb 213-537; Murray Greene 535; H. Svirsky 531; E. Propp 527, S. Kaplan 211-527, Meyer Basch 209-527; S. Markowitz 524; A. Bahl ditto.

Tavern Association keglers trailed William Struble's 570. He set up the league-leading scores on solos of 178-208-184. Runnerup honors went to . DeGraff, who shot 231-561. J. Heidcamp Jr. had 203-552; J. Kennedy 202-550; B. Smith 201-550; Floyd Crantek 548; J. Turck 202-540; L. Misasi 536; Don Koeppen 203-534; A. Berry 532; J Guziak 530; B. DuBois 529; J. S. Provenzano 232-524 and W. Piepper 523.

Three Women's Major (Shuffling type) rolled better than "500" with Rose Schatzel the inevitable leader at 168-156-204-528. Marie Koenig was six pins behind with a high of 183 and. Dot Rawding shot 502. Also top bracket were Evelyn Gross 204-497; Beverly Port 495; Tess Moss 492; E. Bruck 490; Rita La Rocca 490; Charlotte Lapine 486.

Dorothea Walthery of New Paltz tossed the best triple in the B.Y.A. League, a 434 on games of 144, 173, 117. Fritzie Davis posted 411, Nell Glennon 408, Emma Pratt 383, Lillian Bloomer 379, Evelyn Sior 373 and Nellie Alverson 370.

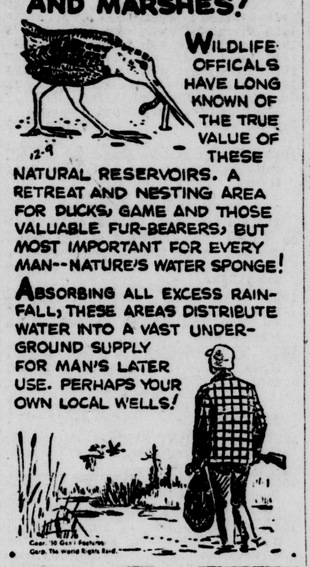
John Howard's 154-187-196-537 was the lone "500" in the Scranton Lace circuit. Three other top scores were Bill Cameron's 485; Bill Joy 483 and Fred Colao 481.

Sandwiching a 173 with 203 and 216, Bud Greenburg was top man in the Y Mercantile American circuit with 592. Runnerup Tom Rowland shot 542, while Austin Hitchcock and Ed Bock clicked for 520. Jack Raible had 208-518; Ed Aucair 492; Frances Grube 477; Pat DeCicco 476; John Grube 474; Carmen Massa 473.

H. Schussler's 569 led the Bowlodrome Mixed loop last night, but Ada Markle's 567, with 230-143-194, was the highspot of the night. Miss Markle, who promises to be one of the city's leading women keglers of the future, had one of the best triples of her career and missed a sure "600" triple only because of a few bad breaks in the middle set. Schussler's three-game string consisted of 225-169-175.

Trailing the leaders were Richard Howard 205-562; Bill Lawrence 201-599; F. Leskie 202-540; Jack Healey 216-536; William Murray 527; Joe Berardi 517; Jake Chichelsky 512; Rose Schatzel 502; Len Freer 491.

SPORTSMAN'S DIGEST By Hal Sharp



Trailways Blast 3123 In HV League Match

Schatzel and Ferraro Clout 672 and 663

Pounding games of 1086, 968 and 1069, Adirondack Trailways buried the Poughkeepsie Fogg-Nash squad under a 3123 barrage in week-end competition in the Hudson Valley League.

The three game sweep enabled the Trailways to maintain a first place with the Newburgh Johnnys, who swept a trio from Miron Lumber.

Johnny Ferraro sent his league-leading average soaring to 204.14 for 30 games with a 211-218-234-663 blast. Johnny Schatzel, who was No. 5 in the latest tabulations, moved up to a rousing 198.16 for 27 games with a hefty 219-197-672 series.

Fred Rice and Angie Ferraro rolled over the "600" mark, the former hitting 216-612 and Ferraro hitting 1 on the nose with highs of 217-202.

The best triple of the match was compiled by Fogg-Nash's George Baird who rattled the timbers for 687, via 229, 212 and 246.

Ruzoo's Take Pair

The Ruzzo Bowlatorium keglers upset Port Jervis on the tri-state city lanes, 2 to 1. Jackie Altomore led the locals with 214-578. The scores:

Myers Through As B.C. Coach

Boston, Nov. 21 (AP)—It's up to school officials whether Denny Myers will return to coach Boston College football in 1951.

Denny disclosed yesterday he had asked college authorities to relieve him of his contract obligations which extend through 1951. He didn't offer to resign and he won't quit.

The obvious implication was that he would have to be paid off for '51.

"I have a family, you know," he explained.

"All I'm interested in right now is preparing the boys for the Holy Cross game (Dec. 2) until the college makes up its mind," said Myers.

College officials remain silent. It is known they have conferred several times since Denny first approached them a few days ago.

Now It's Culmone

Bowie, Md., Nov. 21 (AP)—Jockey Joe Culmone is out in front of Willie Shoemaker by one race today in their contest for the nation's riding crown. The 18-year-old Culmone rode one winner at Bowie yesterday to bring his 1950 total to 332. Shoemaker, campaigning on the west coast, was idle and his stayed at 331.

Ferraro Rolls 277 and 733 for New Records in City Bowling League

You may kid Johnny Ferraro about his incessant tinkering with new grips, screwy grips, his experiments with bowling ball pitches and unorthodox spans, but in spite of these idiosyncrasies he always adds up to the best bowler in the Hudson valley.

Last night, the veteran ace was back home at the Central Recs and delighted his Old Capital Motors teammates with a rousing 733 triple for a new seasonal record in the city's oldest tenpin wheel.

Pounds 277 Solo

"The Ace," as he is familiarly known to alley denizens, pounded the uprights for successive counts of 277, 226 and 230. The 277 solo is also a new high for the season.

Chances are that the 733 was the 40th in Ferraro's career, which just about gives him more of those coveted series than all the other bowlers in the city put together.

Ferraro's tremendous blast, erasing his own previous record of 714, came only a couple of hours after he had stressed "mental conditioning" in a radio interview. "The Ace" pointed out that in a majority of cases, a bowler's failure to hit certain alleys after repeated attempts must be attributed to lack of "mental conditioning."

Ferraro knows the Central Rec lanes like you know the palms of your hand, so his 733 came as no surprise to the City League sharpies gathered at "Red" Sangi's midtown dreamland of high scoring. But it added up to a pretty solid night's work in any league.

Colonials Upset

Of tremendous interest, however, was the stunning upset the league-leading Colonials suffered at the hands of Jake's Grill. The "champs" were knocked off three times running.

The Jakes accomplished the feat without shooting a "1000" game or without a single individual series of "600." George "Sec" Robinson was their top man with 590.

Bill Kuehn rolled up another big series in the anchor slot opposite Ferraro, posting 671 on scores of 203, 225, 243. Kuehn had a 704 in the Bolowdrome Major last Thursday.

Tommy "Shiek" Carlino, a distant relative of Rudolph Valentino, grabbed the No. 3 spot with 205-242-210-657. Tommy Amato shot 194-213-210-617.

Other top scores included Lou Guadagnola's 201-203-594; George Robinson 204-590; Charlie Manfro 213-590; Al Kieffer 212-205-585; and Phil Corrado 218-587.

Best team games were the Embassy's 1026 and Old Capital's 1005. The latter's 2938 was high team series.

The scores:

Nerone Converts The '7-10' Split

Vic Nerone, of East Kingston, who rolls for the Crystal Gardens team in the City Minor League, achieved that rarest of all split conversions in bowling, when he cleaned off the 7-10 last night at the Bowlodrome.

Nerone's conversion was only the fourth in local bowling history. He will receive a special shoulder patch from the American Bowling Congress for his feat.

Griffith Joins Boudreau Sweeps

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—Clark Griffith set a goal for himself on his 81st birthday yesterday—the acquisition of Lou Boudreau to play shortstop for the Washington Senators.

Griffith said at a big birthday party that he had made an offer last week to Boudreau, the Cleveland Indians' former manager and star shortstop. He indicated he hopes to hear something by next Monday.

Boudreau, a free agent since his release by the Indians, said at his home in Harvey, Ill., that there was "nothing new on the subject—I won't make a decision until later on."

He reportedly has had offers from the New York Yankees and the Boston Red Sox. And there has been talk he might wind up managing the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Schrowang's 618 Paces Elston Bowling Win

Joe Schrowang's 618 series paced Elston Sports to a 93-pin decision over Catskill in a special bowling match in Kingston over the week-end. Schrowang pounded the maples for 226, 170, 222 as the Elstons hit 2766 against 2673 for the visitors.

Bill Guldenstern led the losers with 202-205-178-605.

Runnerup was F. Pavlick with 200-577, while Clausi added 154 and 173 to his 247 for 574. Also of not were Joe Fautz's 207-558; Len Freer 200-558; Milly Berardi 201-553; Pete Nagy 205-547; F. The league produced a bumper crop of 31 series of "500" or better.

A "600" on the nose—via 191-215-194 gave Harry Wilber weekly honors in the Independent circuit, with R. Halbert posting 209-564 for the runnerup spot.

Among the better of the 19 "500" triples were Leo Everett's 203-555; Don Vogel 553; Orv Van Alstyne 224-554; Milt Cole Sr. 543; Eddie Marks 226-542; Charlie Grunenwald 538; Jim Daniels 537; Harry Pierce 205-535; Ed Trombley 533; Roland Post 530; Knute Beichert 526; Ward DuBois 523 and Gene Vogel 522.

Joe Singer sandwiched a 175 with solos of 245 and 220 to set the pace in the Good Neighbor League. This was a new seasonal record for the Monday night circuit.

Mitzie Arlensky was runnerup with 200-575; Danny Basch shot 218-563; Jack Blinder 226-558; Sheldon Levy 562; B. Maroon 203-550; G. Goldfarb 213-537; Murray Greene 535; H. Svirsky 531; E. Propp 527, S. Kaplan 211-527, Meyer Basch 209-527; S. Markowitz 524; A. Bahl ditto.

Tavern Association keglers trailed William Struble's 570. He set up the league-leading scores on solos of 178-208-184. Runnerup honors went to . DeGraff, who shot 231-561. J. Heidcamp Jr. had 203-552; J. Kennedy 202-550; B. Smith 201-550; Floyd Crantek 548; J. Turck 202-540; L. Misasi 536; Don Koeppen 203-534; A. Berry 532; J Guziak 530; B. DuBois 529; J. S. Provenzano 232-524 and W. Piepper 523.

Three Women's Major (Shuffling type) rolled better than "500" with Rose Schatzel the inevitable leader at 168-156-204-528. Marie Koenig was six pins behind with a high of 183 and Dot Rawding shot 502. Also top bracket were Evelyn Gross 204-497; Beverly Port 495; Tess Moss 492; E. Bruck 490; Rita La Rocca 490; Charlotte Lapine 486.

Dorothea Walthery of New Paltz tossed the best triple in the B.Y.A. League, a 434 on games of 144, 173, 117. Fritzie Davis posted 411, Nell Glennon 408, Emma Pratt 383, Lillian Bloomer 379, Evelyn Sior 373 and Nellie Alverson 370.

John Howard's 154-187-196-537 was the lone "500" in the Scranton Lace circuit. Three other top scores were Bill Cameron's 485; Bill Joy 483 and Fred Colao 481.

Sandwiching a 173 with 203 and 216, Bud Greenburg was top man in the Y Mercantile American circuit with 592. Runnerup Tom Rowland shot 542, while Austin Hitchcock and Ed Bock clicked for 520. Jack Raible had 208-518; Ed Aucair 492; Frances Grube 477; Pat DeCicco 476; John Grube 474; Carmen Massa 473.

H. Schussler's 569 led the Bowlodrome Mixed loop last night, but Ada Markle's 567, with 230-143-194, was the highspot of the night. Miss Markle, who promises to be one of the city's leading women keglers of the future, had one of the best triples of her career and missed a sure "600" triple only because of a few bad breaks in the middle set. Schussler's three-game string consisted of 225-169-175.

Trailing the leaders were Richard Howard 205-562; Bill Lawrence 201-599; F. Leskie 202-540; Jack Healey 216-536; William Murray 527; Joe Berardi 517; Jake Chichelsky 512; Rose Schatzel 502; Len Freer 491.

Trailways Blast 3123 In HV League Match

Schatzel and Ferraro Clout 672 and 663

Pounding games of 1086, 968 and 1069, Adirondack Trailways buried the Poughkeepsie Fogg-Nash squad under a 3123 barrage in week-end competition in the Hudson Valley League.

The three game sweep enabled the Trailways to maintain a first place with the Newburgh Johnnys, who swept a trio from Miron Lumber.

Johnny Ferraro sent his league-leading average soaring to 204.14 for 30 games with a 211-218-234-663 blast. Johnny Schatzel, who was No. 5 in the latest tabulations, moved up to a rousing 198.16 for 27 games with a hefty 219-197-672 series.

Fred Rice and Angie Ferraro rolled over the "600" mark, the former hitting 216-612 and Ferraro hitting i on the nose with highs of 217-202.

The best triple of the match was compiled by Fogg-Nash's George Baird who rattled the timbers for 687, via 229, 212 and 246.

Macy Quits . . .

meeting, "have I known anything that approached the happenings preceding and following the Saratoga convention earlier this fall.

"I was appalled and shocked by the machinations that took place there."

Macy, 61, had supported Lieut. Gov. Joe R. Hanley for the nomination for governor until Hanley withdrew his candidacy just before the convention.

Macy made no reference to the letter Hanley sent him on the eve of the convention saying he was assured his debts would be cleaned up if he ran for the Senate instead of for governor.

The Democrats obtained a copy of the letter in a manner never publicly revealed, and charged in mid-campaign that it unveiled a "deal" whereby Hanley would step aside so Dewey could run for re-election.

Both Hanley and Dewey denied there was any wrongdoing involved, and Macy vigorously denied any knowledge of how the Democrats obtained their copy.

Dewey was reelected, and Hanley was defeated for the Senate.

Macy was edged out in a traditionally-Republican district which he had carried by a two-to-one margin two years before.

The vote canvass was completed yesterday with the exception of one absentee ballot that was disputed.

Macy said he nevertheless would "spare no effort to retain the seat for a Republican."

Asked for clarification, he told a reporter he believed there were some "discrepancies" in the election count and said there may be "a congressional review."

Officials Criticized

The subcommittee took a pessimistic view of the nation's rubber situation on all fronts—natural, synthetic and synthetic components.

It urged both government and industry "while there is still time" to adopt an aggressive program for acquiring natural rubber supplies from Asia. And further research for rubber production in this hemisphere was urgently recommended.

meeting, "have I known anything that approached the happenings preceding and following the Saratoga convention earlier this fall.

"I was appalled and shocked by the machinations that took place there."

Macy, 61, had supported Lieut. Gov. Joe R. Hanley for the nomination for governor until Hanley withdrew his candidacy just before the convention.

Macy made no reference to the letter Hanley sent him on the eve of the convention saying he was assured his debts would be cleaned up if he ran for the Senate instead of for governor.

The Democrats obtained a copy of the letter in a manner never publicly revealed, and charged in mid-campaign that it unveiled a "deal" whereby Hanley would step aside so Dewey could run for re-election.

Both Hanley and Dewey denied there was any wrongdoing involved, and Macy vigorously denied any knowledge of how the Democrats obtained their copy.

Dewey was reelected, and Hanley was defeated for the Senate.

Macy was edged out in a traditionally-Republican district which he had carried by a two-to-one margin two years before.

The vote canvass was completed yesterday with the exception of one absentee ballot that was disputed.

Macy said he nevertheless would "spare no effort to retain the seat for a Republican."

Asked for clarification, he told a reporter he believed there were some "discrepancies" in the election count and said there may be "a congressional review."

Officials Criticized

The subcommittee took a pessimistic view of the nation's rubber situation on all fronts—natural, synthetic and synthetic components.

It urged both government and industry "while there is still time" to adopt an aggressive program for acquiring natural rubber supplies from Asia. And further research for rubber production in this hemisphere was urgently recommended.

A Car Full of Roses—and Dents

It was an ill wind yesterday for John R. Warren of 169 Manor avenue. His new sedan, parked alongside a rose arbor, was covered with the whole bush—and the arbor, when a gust of strong wind capsized the ornamental garden display. Dents and scratches were the result. (Freeman Photo)

Less Than 200 Take that while the audience was sitting in a warm auditorium "World War 3 has already started, and how much of a shooting war it becomes remains to be seen."

Ovation for Band

The concert by the 50-piece United States Military Academy Band brought an ovation the size of which was unbelievable considering the sparse attendance. The band, under the direction of Lt. Barry H. Drewes, assistant bandmaster, gave a performance which surpassed many performmances to which admission is charged. (Regulations prohibit the U.S.M.A. Band from playing where admission is charged.)

A stirring rendition of Rossini's "William Tell" overture was one of the high spots of the program. Three sergeants from Chicago—George Olisar, Charles Pospisil and John Naprstek—received prolonged applause for their cornet trio, "Three Kings," by Smith, as did Sgt. Vincent Romo of New York for his saxophone solo, "Flight of the Bumble Bee," by Rimsky-Korsakov.

Ravel's "Bolero" by the entire band was a powerful climax to the evening's program. Other pieces in the band's performance included selections from "South Pacific," MacDowell's Opus 51, "To a Wild Rose," "On the Trail" from Grand Canyon Suite by Grofe, Gould's "Yankee Doodle," and Anderson's "Fiddle Faddle."

The 50-piece concert band is composed of professional musicians who are regular army men. They are a part of the 120-piece U.S.M.A. Band that provides music for the cadet dress reviews and other functions at West Point. According to one band officer, the group makes few public appearances, as they have many duties at the academy. Captain Francis E. Resta is commanding officer and bandmaster.

Parade Is Canceled

Rain forced the cancellation of the parade which was to have preceded the rally at the high school auditorium. In addition to the West Point band, the Kingston High School band and the Port Ewen Fife, Drum and Bugle Corps were scheduled to provide music for the marchers who would represent the 20 organizations from this city that cooperated in planning the Americanism rally.

About half of those present were high school students or grade school youngsters. Some Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts were present in uniform, and a group of Kingston Boys Club members attended.

Lewis directed a large portion of his talk to the children, asking that they wake up their parents in regard to their duty to vote.

Less than 50 per cent of the people eligible to vote do vote, Lewis said, and that the result is that we have a country governed by a minority. "If it continues to be governed by a minority, the things that made America great can tumble and fall," he said.

"Democracy is everybody's business—yes, even the business of you children in school. It is your job and my job to be supersalesmen for democracy," he said. "Be proud of your America, and let the rest of the world know about it."

Lewis continued, "If we are full of passion for democracy, then we have in our hearts and minds a dynamic and revolutionary concept of freedom. That concept will strike terror to every dictator and tyrant."

About Russia, the speaker contended, "There is no stopping Russia short of a head-on conflict or military preparedness to such a degree Russia would not dare to challenge us."

Elements to Be Feared

Of the Communist danger, Lewis warned that we have not only to fear the known Communist nations, but also the Communist elements in friendly nations. He pointed out that there are 55,000 Communist party members in the United States, according to an estimate by J. Edgar Hoover, F.B.I. chief. In France, a friendly nation, there are 700,000 Communist party members, and in Italy 2,500,000, he said.

Complimenting the audience for properly facing toward the U. S. flag when the National Anthem was played, Lewis said that in many places the little respect for the flag shown by citizens is disgraceful. He said it is a shameful fact that the Pledge of Allegiance is known "only by a small majority of people." Many people do not know the words of "The Star Spangled Banner," he added.

Among those present was a group of about 20 persons who have obtained first naturalization papers and are studying to become American citizens.

Members of the Kingston High School Key Club, a boys' service organization sponsored by Kiwanis, were ushers. Gerald Bechtold is president of the club. Hubert Hoderath, faculty advisor, arranged for the ushering, and technical arrangements at the high school were made by Herbert Powell and Warren Russell.

Joseph Honig, chairman of the Kingston Joint Americanism Committee, presided at the meeting and introduced the guest speaker. A brief welcome was given by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk.

The invocation was given by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Martin J. Drury. Benediction was by the Rev. Burton F. Tarr.

The meeting, sparked by B'nai B'rith, was the result of the joint efforts of 20 local organizations, including veterans associations, service clubs, youth groups and others.

Lewis, a practicing attorney, is a member of the law firm of Feinberg, Jerry and Lewis, of Plattsburgh.

3 Criminal Cases Disposed of; Court Off Till Wednesday

Three criminal matters were disposed of in county court Monday afternoon by County Judge John M. Cashin and several additional cases were set down for disposition at later dates. Two civil cases were also announced settled and court recessed until Wednesday at 10 o'clock.

Carson Emberson, Jr., indicted three or four years ago for burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry, appeared in court and drew a suspension of imposition of sentence when he entered a plea of guilty to unlawful entry. Chris J. Flanagan appeared for defendant. The indictment against Emberson has been held for some time pending his discharge from a federal penitentiary in the mid-west. He served two years in the penitentiary. Judge Cashin said that in view of the punishment Emberson had just completed, he would not now impose any sentence here but warned the defendant he must behave or he would be brought back and sentence imposed.

Edward Charles Smith, charged with rape, second degree, entered a plea of guilty to a violation of Section 483, a misdemeanor. William A. Kaercher appeared for Smith. A one year jail sentence was imposed and suspended and Smith was placed on probation.

Hans Femerling, High Woods, entered a plea of guilt to violation of Section 1897, Sub. 5, a misdemeanor, that of carrying a gun unlawfully. Joseph M. Campbell appeared for defendant and a year in the county jail was imposed and execution of the sentence was suspended. Bail was exonerated and Femerling was placed on probation.

Several other criminal cases were set down for future dates.

No. 28, John H. Matthews against William Singer, contract, was announced settled. Chris J. Flanagan for plaintiff and Francis Martocci for defendant.

No. 42, Charles Dagwell against William Klimas, negligence, was also announced settled. Harry Gold for plaintiff and Joseph A. Owens for defendant.

Four Major Roads Interested in O. & W.

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 21 (AP)—The head of a committee trying to save the bankrupt New York, Ontario and Western Railroad says four major railroads are interested in incorporating the line into their systems.

James E. Leland of Hamilton said in a statement last night that the four lines had approached the committee separately. He did not identify them.

Hower W. Clark of East Syracuse, a committee member, said he understood each of the major lines was considering operating the 544-mile O. & W. as part of its system. The O. & W. runs between Oswego and Weehawken, N. J.

Clark added that John Barringer, president of the Chicago, Indianapolis and St. Louis Railroad, planned to discuss the line with the committee today or tomorrow at New York city.

The committee is scheduled to meet at Scranton, Pa., this weekend.

Leland claimed that the committee's work had kept the O. & W. in the black for the last three months. He expressed the hope that bondholders would withdraw a petition, filed in Federal Court, asking abandonment of the line.

Paraguay has no sea coast.

Four Major Roads Interested in O. & W.

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 21 (AP)—The head of a committee trying to save the bankrupt New York, Ontario and Western Railroad says four major railroads are interested in incorporating the line into their systems.

James E. Leland of Hamilton said in a statement last night that the four lines had approached the committee separately. He did not identify them.

Hower W. Clark of East Syracuse, a committee member, said he understood each of the major lines was considering operating the 544-mile O. & W. as part of its system. The O. & W. runs between Oswego and Weehawken, N. J.

Clark added that John Barringer, president of the Chicago, Indianapolis and St. Louis Railroad, planned to discuss the line with the committee today or tomorrow at New York city.

The committee is scheduled to meet at Scranton, Pa., this weekend.

Leland claimed that the committee's work had kept the O. & W. in the black for the last three months. He expressed the hope that bondholders would withdraw a petition, filed in Federal Court, asking abandonment of the line.

Paraguay has no sea coast.
